Chamber Votes
Backing For Hearing Zoning Stressed

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Outlining the 44-mile Lincoln leg of the Interstate Highway, State Engineer L. N. Riss warned Thursday that city and county planning could "make or break" the envisioned highway for the future.

"It can be the greatest economic boon since the coming of the railroad," he said. "Or—lack of foresighted planning for the interchange connections can stifle community growth."

Some 40 Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, city and county officials listened to the briefing on the Gretna to Pleasant Dale section estimated to cost $31,086,000.

Board OKs Support

Later, Chamber directors voted to support at a Jan. 28 hearing at the Statehouse the route, plan and concept for "this extremely significant highway development" as presented by the state engineer.

"Zoning can make or break the interstate system," Riss said. "Foresighted planning is going to be a top priority job."

"The development of complete communities around these interchanges is possible. It's going to be necessary for Lincoln to review its zoning provisions."

Riss said that counties, also, must give careful consideration to the control of land use around the interchanges.

Advantage Possible

Financial advantages to towns near the interstate can result, but foresighted planning for the connecting routes from the communities must be done, he said.

It was pointed that experience has shown the property values along the connecting routes have materially increased.

Lincoln officials, he said, will be concerned with interchange connections on 9th and 10th and at Havelock, Greenwood and Waverly connections with an interchange will rest on Lancaster County.

Seven interchanges, to allow traffic on and off the controlled-access highway, are located on the route between Gretna and Pleasant Dale. Five are in Lancaster County.

Construction Soon

Construction of a portion of the 44-mile leg could begin in 1958. He said the interchange route to the Lincoln business district may come in 1959.

In answer to a question, Lancaster County Engineer L. W. Weaver estimated that the county could provide for the county connections to interchanges and aid road development around Lincoln "if the legislature doesn't take away our gas tax funds."

Also at the joint meeting of its board of directors and its streets and highway committee, the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce endorsed two other areas of street and highway improvement.

City Plan OK'd

Mayor Bennett Martin's proposed 10-year major streets improvement program for the city was given approval. The Chamber said it would "enthusiastically and actively endorse and support all aspects" of the proposed $15.6 million program.

The Chamber officials also recommended that the County Board should "be encouraged to explore all possibilities" for county participation in street and highway improvements both within the corporate limits of the city and the immediately adjacent areas.

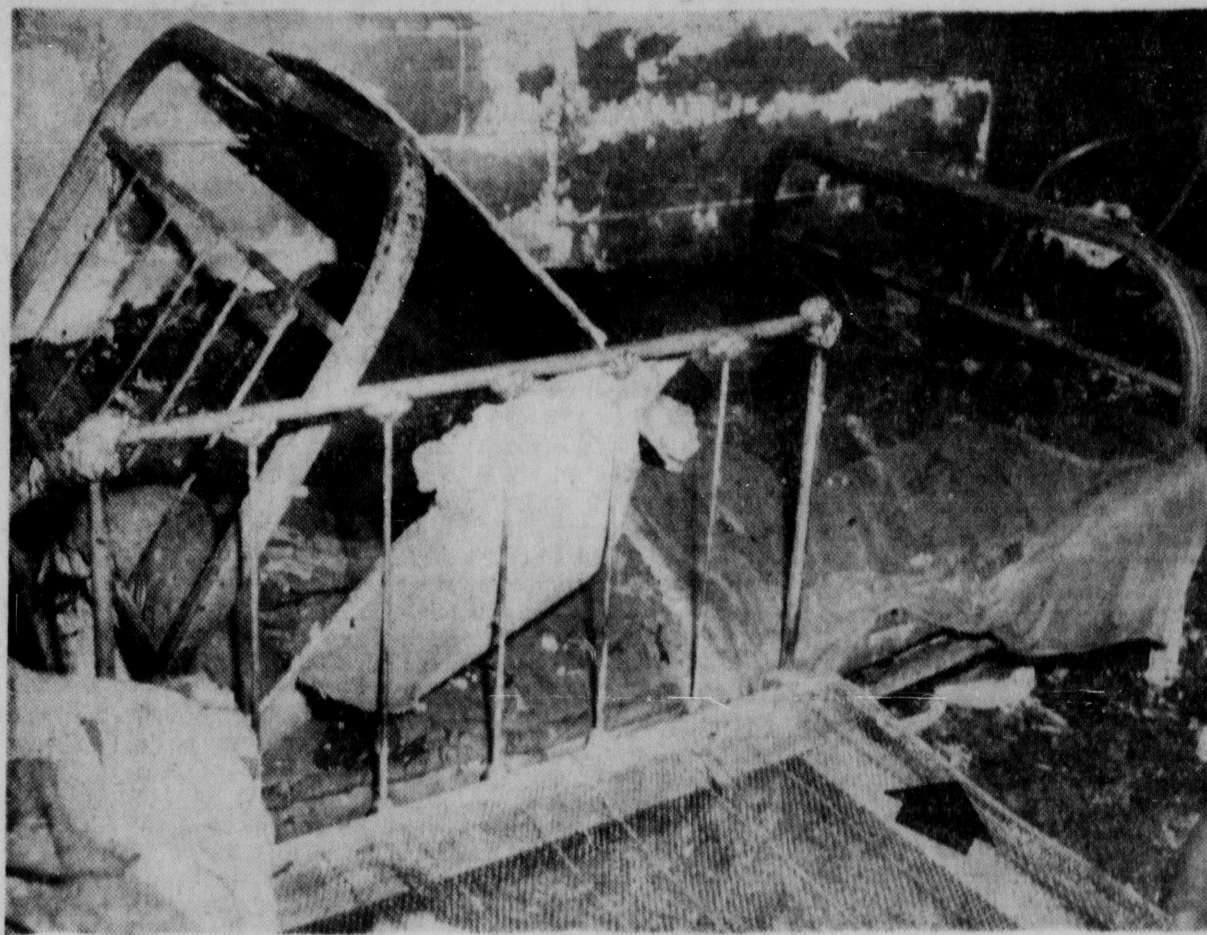

The recommendation expressed the hope for development of a "more fully co-ordinated working and planning arrangement between both governmental subdivisions."

Referring to the detailed brief on the Gretna-Pleasant Dale portion of the Interstate highway, the directors agreed that the Chamber of Commerce "should be fully represented at the Jan. 28 hearing" to present its endorsement and support of the state engineer's proposed plans.

Outer-Space Effort Prodded

Senate-House Unit Is Set Up
As Urgency, Alarm Mounts

WASHINGTON (INS) — A Senate-House subcommittee to spur U. S. efforts to "conquer outer space" was created Thursday as Congress tackled missile-satellite problems in a mounting demonstration of urgency and alarm.

Rep. Carl T. Durham (D-N C), chairman of the joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, set up the "Outer Space" subcommittee and named Sen. Clinton Anderson (D-N M) as its head.

The action came amid new warnings of the perils resulting from the U. S. lag behind Russia in space penetration and action by the House Military Appropriations subcommittee to give President Eisenhower even more money than he has requested for emergency missile development.

Durham declared that "the need to conquer outer space is very important to the security and prestige of the United States." He said the challenge is "so important" that it was decided to appoint the subcommittee to consider "means of accelerating this country's efforts in this field."

He noted that the joint committee has "been concerned with bold projects for many years" and cited development of the H-bomb and the atomic submarine Nautilus as examples.

Closed Hearings

Durham said he expected the subcommittee to be in operation after a series of closed-door hearings next week.

Creation of Congress' first specific space-age unit climaxed a day of intensive activity in which key developments included:

—Thomas G. Lanphier Jr., a top aircraft executive, accused the Eisenhower administration of suppressing the full facts on the "imminence and magnitude" of the post-Sputnik Soviet threat. He also said the U. S. could expand its missile-killer program "50 times" and double its Atlas missile effort.

Agreement

—The House Military Appropriations subcommittee was reported in complete agreement on a recommendation that Mr. Eisenhower be given the $1,260,000,000 in new weapons spending authority he requested, plus more money for army missiles not included in defense budget figures.

—Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn) introduced a bill to commit the Atomic Energy Commission to a "dedicated effort" to harness the energy of the H-bomb and a project aimed at enabling the U. S. to win the race to put a manned rocket ship into outer space.

—Kraft Ehrlicke, German-born rocket expert, testified that the Air Force is studying his program to establish a reconnaissance station on the moon. Ehrlicke, chief satellite planner for the Convair division of General Dynamics, said the project can be started with "existing rocket hardware."

FRIENDLY BANDIT GETS $90

Almost $90 was stolen from the Standard service station at 10th and M Thursday night by a friendly-looking bandit who took the money without force while the station attendant was serving a customer.

Robert W. McDermand of 1802 Washington, on duty at the time, told police the suspect was brown haired, 20-22 years of age, 150 pounds.

McDermand said the man left the station on foot but in the course of a two-hour stay in the station, the thief told him he had a late model car.

While the man loitered at the station he conversed freely with the attendant. He casually announced he was going home. Soon after that McDermand discovered the cash register had been cleaned out.

Anderson Believes Tax Cut Unneeded

Treasury Chief Feels U.S.
Economy To Right Itself

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Anderson said Thursday he believes the U. S. economy will "right itself" without the added stimulus of a tax cut. He told the House Ways and Means Committee that any general tax reductions "do not seem prudent" at this time, but said he did not want to be "inflexible" on the possibility of tax cuts later. Thus he held the door ajar for reductions if they are considered necessary.

While recommending a few specific relief measures for small businessmen, Anderson called for continuation of the present 52 per cent maximum tax on corporate profits and another year's extension of the present excise tax rates on liquor, cigarettes and automobiles.

He did not even mention individual income taxes in his prepared statement. President Eisenhower has indicated that individual and corporate tax rates will probably have to continue unchanged for another year to help finance new defense spending.

Anderson, who succeeded George M. Humphrey in the cabinet last July 29, was called before the House group to outline the administration's tax policies. The committee is starting hearings on general revenue law revisions.

Anxious

"I regret that a continuation of existing rates has to be my first recommendation to you on tax matters," Anderson said, "because I am anxious for tax reductions of various sorts, as I know you are, and as the people of the country are."

"But under the conditions as they are foreseen at present, such tax reductions do not seem prudent."

Eisenhower told his news conference Wednesday he would prefer some red ink financing to any increase in taxes now. The President's new $73,900,000,000 budget contemplates a small surplus for the year starting July 1.

Anderson recommended these revenue law changes to give small businessmen "important relief for the revenue loss involved."

1. That businesses be given the right to utilize accelerated tax depreciation on used as well as new property up to a purchase cost of $50,000.

2. That corporations with 10 or fewer stockholders be given the option of being taxed as if they were partnerships.

3. That taxpayers be given the option of paying estate taxes by installments over a period of up to 10 years in cases where the estate consists largely of investment in closely-held business concerns.

4. That original investors in small businesses be given the right to take stock losses up to some specified maximum on income tax returns. The present deduction for such losses is limited to $1,000.

FAIR SKIES IN MOST OF STATE

Fair skies were slated for Nebraska Friday, except for the extreme northeastern part of the state, the Weather Bureau said.

Highs were to be 45-55, compared with Thursday's highs that ranged from 45 at the Lincoln Air Force Base to 56 at Imperial.

Lincoln had a trace of precipitation in a very light rain shower Thursday afternoon.

Probe Reason For Blaze Which Killed Three Tots

... Rising City Children Alone In House

Lincoln Star Special
RISING CITY, Neb. —

Exact cause of the tragic blaze claiming the lives of three small youngsters here Thursday morning remains unknown. Fire Chief Thomas Sanley disclosed late Thursday.

Flames gutted the four-room dwelling of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Dow, snuffing out the lives of three of their four children, Dessie Mae, 1, Henry, 2, and William Lee, 3.

A physician who examined the children attributed their deaths to suffocation, according to Fire Chief Sanley.

V. W. Germain of the state fire marshal's office in Lincoln revealed the blaze "could have been caused by children playing with matches," but investigation has not been completed. He was in Rising City Thursday afternoon checking the situation with Chief Sanley.

Mrs. Dow was away from the home at the time of the fire, visiting her grandfather, M. M. Cobler, who lives about a block from the Dow home. The Dows' older daughter, who is 7, was in school.

Chief Sanley related that when volunteer firemen reached the burning house, located in the southwest part of town, flames had enveloped the structure and firemen were unable to enter immediately due to the intense heat.

Fireman Recovering
One fireman, Assistant Chief Ward Kilgore, was temporarily overcome by smoke and water. However, he was reported fully recovered late Thursday.

Sanley said it took nearly an hour to douse the flames, and he was of the opinion the fire might have started from a half hour to an hour before firemen arrived.

The fire chief said the youngsters were found by firemen huddled together in the bedroom. One child, he said, was under the bed.

Mrs. Ferd Voss, who lives about a quarter of a mile from Rising City, turned in the alarm about 11 a.m.

Mr. Dow, a junk dealer here, was working at a local service station at the time of the blaze. The family has resided in Rising City for about five years.

Rising City firemen were assisted by the David City rescue squad. Chief Sanley explained that his department only has two pieces of equipment for use in fighting fires.

The small town of Rising City, population 347, is located about 12 miles southwest of David City on U.S. Highway 30-A.

The blast sent tons of bricks crashing down from two walls of the building and heavy ammonia fumes hampered rescue workers.

Police Chief Col. O. D. Garton said "I don't believe any of the other missing men could possibly be alive."

Rescue workers in the block-long area were forced to wear gas masks as they proceeded cautiously under the threat of more falling debris.

Two workers, crane operators, were overcome by the fumes and required hospitalization. However, they were reported in good condition.

The body recovered was identified as Charles R. Gray, assistant foreman at the ice plant.

Garton listed the missing as: Charlie W. Gray, foreman at the plant; James Gellispie and Frank Jackson, workers; Robert House and Carl Jackson, Henrico County school truck operators, and John Morris, who was working on one of the trucks.

Not Confirmed
Garton said another man may have been working on one of the school trucks parked by the building, but this was not confirmed.

Rescue workers within a block long area of the wrecked building were forced to don oxygen masks. Power-shovels were called in to move the tons of debris.

Garton said a check indicated that seven persons—four workers at the ice company and three others in school trucks parked near the cascading rubble—were missing.

"I would say they are all dead," Garton said, when no bodies had been recovered more than three hours after the blast.

Side Blown Out
The explosion tumbled two walls of the building, ripping out some 70 feet of brick in one direction, and about 30 feet in the other direction around the corner of the building.

"It just blew the whole side out, just like a bomb had hit the building," Col. Garton said.

"It is the worst explosion I've seen in Richmond in my 35 years with the Police Department."

Price Prop Cuts Tagged Sure Bankruptcy

WASHINGTON (AP) — General denunciation by Democrats and a mixed reaction by Republicans, Thursday greeted President Eisenhower's farm message calling for authority to cut price supports.

The message also asked for discretionary power for the secretary of agriculture to increase planting allotments.

Chairman Cooley (D-NC) of the House Agriculture committee called the administration plan "a blueprint for bankruptcy." He said Secretary of Agriculture Benson wants to be "a complete and absolute czar over the destiny of American agriculture."

Chairman Ellender (D-LA) of the Senate Agriculture Committee

likewise flung a "czar" charge at Benson and declared that Eisenhower's program "doesn't have a ghost of a chance this year or any other time."

Iowans See Good In It

On the other hand, Iowa's two Republican senators—Hickenlooper and Martin—found much to praise.

Martin said that what Eisenhower has proposed is "calculated to improve the lot of individual farmers and to advance the country's over-all agricultural economy."

Hickenlooper said "in the main I'm for it" and he specifically called the idea of price supports at 60-90 per cent of parity a sound approach. Parity is a price level deemed fair to the farmer in relation to his costs.

Sen. Aiken (R-VT), top GOP member of the Senate Agriculture Committee said he objected strongly to Eisenhower's request for power to lower dairy supports, and therefore would not introduce the bill.

"I will not put my name to a bill that puts the squeeze on the dairy farmer," Aiken said.

Bill Is Introduced

Hickenlooper later took the Senate floor and introduced the administration farm bill. Rep. Dixon (R-Utah) did the same in the House.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader, said the President's message poses the issue sharply:

"Shall we solve the problems of agriculture by eliminating farmers or shall we seek to help farmers through the present very difficult times? I hope that we will follow the road of help."

Sen. Proxmire (D-Wis) called the President's dairy proposals "unbelievably shocking." He said lower prices that would result "will simply destroy Wisconsin's farm families."

The National Milk Producers Federation also sharply criticized the request for authority to lower dairy supports. It said such authority, if used, would slice a billion dollars off income of dairy farmers.

"It is obvious," the federation said, "that only Congress stands between dairy farmers and disaster."

Ike Proposes Farm Price Support Cuts

AUTHORITY ASKED TO EASE CONTROLS

...In Special Message

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower called upon Congress Thursday for authority to reduce price supports and to ease production controls on major crops.

In a special message, the chief executive said in effect that the government must shift its farm policies away from efforts to restrict production to programs designed to move the expanding production into markets.

"The scientific revolution in agriculture is irreversible and is continuing," he said. "It cannot be avoided and it need not be feared."

Eisenhower asked for authority to set supports for major crops well below present levels, and for power to increase planting allotments.

Defeat Predicted

Chairman Ellender (D-La.) of the Senate Agriculture Committee predicted such requests would get nowhere. He accused Eisenhower of trying to give Secretary of Agriculture Benson "czaristic-type powers to fix acreages as he pleases."

Rep. Cooley (D-NC), chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, called the Eisenhower program "a blueprint for bankruptcy."

Eisenhower outlined 14 recommendations—some requiring legislative action and others not—for setting up what he called a new "farm, food and fiber program" to help "our farmers to adjust to today's rapidly changing economy."

Specifically, his major legislative recommendations—which had been outlined previously by both himself and Secretary Benson—asked for authority to set supports for cotton, corn, wheat, rice, peanuts and tobacco as low as 60 per cent of parity and to increase planting allotments of these crops as much as 50 per cent above levels now directed by law.

75 Per Cent Now

The present minimum support level for these crops is 75 per cent of parity. The maximum level is 90 per cent. Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to their costs.

To the surprise of some farm leaders, Eisenhower also asked that the minimum possible level for dairy supports—now 75 per cent of parity, be 60 per cent. The maximum is 90 per cent.

Some leaders had not expected this dairy recommendation in view of sharp opposition raised in Congress to recent action of Benson in lowering dairy supports to 75 per cent, effective April 1. Present supports are 83 per cent for milk and 80 for butterfat.

The authority Eisenhower asked would permit the support for wheat to drop from the present rate of $2 to about $1.43 a bushel; corn from $1.40 to $1.09; cotton from 28.81 cents to 22.46 cents a pound; rice from $4.72 to $3.50 a hundred pounds; peanuts from 11 cents to 8.22 cents a pound; milk for manufacturing purposes from $3.25 to $2.35 a hundred pounds and butterfat 58.6 cents to 45 cents a pound.

It Would Be Elastic

After the message went to Congress, Benson got in touch with newsmen to say that request for authority to lower these supports did not necessarily mean that the full reductions would be made.

The President's recommendations proposed a sharp change in direction in federal policies. Past and present programs put great stress on controls to adjust output to a level that would provide farmers prices designed to give them good income.

Eisenhower said these measures have failed to bring "agricultural production into line despite the severe restrictions they impose on the individual farmer's freedom to produce and to market his products."

Furthermore, he said, "unrealistic price support laws . . . result, as farmers now know, in loss of markets."

Market Expansion

The President said in effect that farm price adjustments within the widened price support range would encourage expansion of markets at home and abroad.

He said his proposals, besides giving farmers more freedom and expanding their markets, would help raise farm family income.

The message made no mention of the possible effects of the recommendations on consumers and taxpayers.

But Agriculture Department officials said that a reduction in price supports could be expected to be reflected in lower market prices for such food and fiber raw materials as wheat, livestock feed grains, rice, peanuts, milk and cotton.

These lower producer prices, in turn, they said, should show up in some reductions in retail prices of meats, poultry products, dairy products, cereals and the like. The amount of such retail price reductions would depend on how much price supports were reduced from present levels and whether they were offset by increases in processing costs.

No estimates were available on potential savings to the government on price supports which have been averaging about two billion dollars a year.

The President noted that millions of small farmers received little benefit from the big price support and production programs. He recalled that, on his initiative, the Agriculture Department set up nearly four years ago a rural development program to help these persons find better opportunities on and off the land. He said this program is making good progress.

Other Recommendations

Other recommendations included: Repeal of a provision of farm law requiring that price supports for major crops be raised as soon as the surplus is reduced. Eisenhower said this provision would encourage creation of a new surplus.

Authority to eliminate acreage allotments for corn. He said the allotments have not worked.

Authority to eliminate acreage for cotton on the average quality of the crop, as is done in the case of other crops. The law now specifies use of a quality below average.

Extension of the Agricultural Trade Development Act with authority to dispose of an additional 1 1/2 billion dollars worth of surpluses abroad for foreign currencies.

Extension of the national wool act authorizing incentive payments to supplement growers' returns.

School Milk Program

Extension of the special school milk program under which the government has been paying 75 million dollars a year to help defray part of the cost of milk served in schools.

Legislation requiring states to share in the cost of federal disaster relief programs for farmers.

Expansion of research to find new industrial uses for farm products.

Increasing the membership of the five-member advisory board of the Commodity Credit Corp. to seven and empowering it to advise with the secretary of agriculture on price supports, acreage allotments and related programs.

Elimination next year of the short-term acreage reserve part of the soil bank program and strengthening of the longer-range conservation reserve.

Limitation of payments to farmers under the 225 million dollar agricultural conservation program to practices which achieve longer-lasting conservation benefits. This would eliminate payments for annual practices such as liming and fertilizing soils.

Quake Recorded

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—The Istanbul Seismological Observatory recorded a strong earthquake 200 miles west of Istanbul. The observatory estimated its epicenter was in northern Greece.

Nebraskans Cautious With Farm Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nebraska congressional delegation members were somewhat cautious in comment Thursday on President Eisenhower's farm recommendations but found some pleasing things in the message.

Comment ran:

Sen. Hruska: Pleased at removal of corn allotments, increased research for industrial use of farm products and extension of the law under which surpluses are sold abroad for foreign currency. He added he thought the range of price supports should be on the liberal side. (The President recommended supports from 75 to 60 per cent of parity.)

Sen. Curtis: Expressed pleasure at elimination of corn allotments and raising of wheat allotments, added he opposes lowering of supports at present. Suggested a broader program on industrial use research.

Rep. Harrison: He said he couldn't go along with the recommendation to decrease dairy supports to 60 per cent, would agree to a 70 per cent parity for corn with allotments cancelled.

Rep. Miller: Said he didn't think Congress would approve lowering price supports to 60 per cent minimums and said he didn't think farm legislation this year would be much more than patch work.

Rep. Cunningham: Opposed the President's price support suggestions.

Rep. Weaver: Withheld comment pending committee hearings on the recommendations.

Guardsmen Ordered To Central High

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Arkansas National Guard troops on federal duty were ordered to integrated Central High School Thursday night as "a precautionary measure," a spokesman for the Arkansas Military District reported.

At the school, scene of a soup throwing incident between a white and a Negro student earlier Thursday, a colonel said "we had heard something." He said about 20 or 25 men were sent to the campus, but he declined to elaborate on what military authorities had heard.

An hour earlier rumors began to circulate that something was about to happen at the high school. An unidentified woman, sounding nearly hysterical, called the Arkansas Gazette, and said:

"They're from out of town. They're going to blow up the school."

In recent weeks, the school has been guarded at night by civilians. Troops are stationed at the school only during class hours.

Earlier Thursday, a white student's guardian reported that her ward had dumped a bowl of soup on a Negro girl because she had called him "white trash," the day before.

Peery Subdued After Escape Try In Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An ex-convict who has served time in Nebraska and Oregon was subdued Thursday after a wild attempt to escape from custody in the Franklin County courthouse here.

He is Wesley Peery, 33, who was awaiting a hearing on six charges including three counts of armed robbery and one each of rape, auto theft and operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent.

Peery had been waiting in a court anteroom when he climbed through a transom, made his way to the top floor of the courthouse, climbed through a window, walked a ledge to a roof just outside the law library and broke a window to enter the library.

He was eventually intercepted by two court deputies who took Peery before Common Pleas Judge Myron B. Gessaman, who set bond at $75,000 and ordered Peery returned to jail pending possible filing of jail escape charges.

Court attaches said Peery indicated he would enter a guilty plea to the six charges already against him.

Peery was convicted last April in Lincoln of burglarizing the home of Asst. Police Chief Eugene Masters and stealing Masters' revolver on Jan. 15, 1956.

He was sentenced to five years in the State Penitentiary on the charge but was freed on $7,500 appeal bond.

He is also charged here with robbing Charles Winkler at gun-point on the same evening on which Masters' gun was stolen.

Peery was scheduled for trial on this charge at the October jury term and when he failed to appear (he was being held in Ohio) a $2,500 appearance bond was ordered forfeited.

Peery was convicted of raping a 27-year-old Council Bluffs, Ia., woman on Jan. 25, 1956, in Sarpy County Court but the conviction was reversed on appeal by the State Supreme Court.

Clyde Sheridan Jr. Named Top Lincoln Civil Servant

Clyde Sheridan Jr., employee at the Veterans Administration Hospital for over 10 years, was chosen "Civil Servant of the year" from among 1,500 federal government employees in the Lincoln area.

Sheridan received the award Thursday evening at a banquet celebrating the 75th anniversary of the U.S. Civil Service Commission. More than 280 federal employees attended.

Sheridan, 46, lives at 2136 A and is chief of the protective section at the VA Hospital, in charge of guard-chauveurs and elevator operators and responsible for fire and safety security of the institution.

A member of the Omaha Indian tribe, Sheridan attended Indian schools and served in the Army from 1944 to 1947.

Fine Record

Sheridan was cited for his fine service record on the job and also for "his efforts toward the development of his family and fellow Indians which have made him the recognized leader in Lincoln of the Indian community and the means for establishing better relationships and for helping his people."

He was praised especially for his volunteer youth activities in Lincoln which include coaching boys' basketball teams at Trinity Methodist Church, YMCA and the Salvation Army Red Shield Club, and baseball coaching at Mundy Park during the summer.

He has been active in youth park for the Optimist Club and as boys' club leader at the YMCA. He is also president of the Indian Family Night activity which is held twice monthly at the Belmont Community Center.

He is also engaged in youth and adult activities at Pentzer Park Center, affiliated with the Salvation Army.

In addition he helps provide clothes and spot job employment for the 35 Indian families in Lincoln.

Seven Children

Sheridan also held other positions at the VA Hospital before becoming chief of the protection section. He and his wife have seven children, Matthew, 18; Dewey, 16; Clyde Jr., 13; Van, 11; Harriet, 9; Karen, 7, and Mitchell, 2 1/2.

He received his award plaque from Carl Deitemeyer of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce. Nominees of other federal agencies in the Lincoln area receiving gifts were: Richard A. Burke, U.S. Department of Defense; Dean E. Clark, Smithsonian Institution; Leonard D. Focht, Post Office Department; George D. Knapp, Selective Service System; Marylu Olson, U.S. Department of Interior; and Robert L. Zink, U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Similar anniversary celebrations are planned in 100 cities in honor of the Civil Service Commission, the chief agency for personnel selection of most federal government organizations.

Donald Kline, executive secretary of the Nebraska State Education Association, gave the principal address at the Lincoln observance, and Mayor Bennett S. Martin spoke briefly. Toastmaster was H. G. Bobst, state conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service.

4 To Plan Review Of Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Green (D-R) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Thursday set up a four-member subcommittee to chart the course for a complete committee review of administration foreign policy.

He named Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) chairman to work with Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) and Republicans Wiley (Wis) and H. Alexander Smith (N.J.) to recommend plans for the inquiry.

Democrats have disavowed any intention to use the review for criticism of Secretary of State Dulles and administration policies. They said they would invite his "fullest co-operation" in the study.

Gaillard Wins By Slim Vote

... Confidence Issue

PARIS (AP)—Premier Felix Gaillard's young government rode out a storm in Parliament Thursday, winning a slim vote of confidence on a minor but angry pension issue.

The vote was 253-233.

Gaillard refused to budge on his plan to hold up payments to war veterans and World War I prisoners until Jan. 1 of next year. The pensions normally are paid quarterly.

At one stage his 2 1/2-month old government seemed in considerable danger. But many deputies had second thoughts when Gaillard warned them of the consequences. His economic expert, Jean Monnet, is now in Washington pleading for a 500 million dollar loan to bolster the economy.

The sum involved in the pension dispute was only five billion francs ($11,900,000).

Reminded

"But," Gaillard told the deputies, "if the government yields today, it can not do otherwise tomorrow."

Reminding the deputies that little more than two weeks ago they voted to limit the 1958 budget to 600 billion francs, he asked them: "How can we win confidence abroad if our first act upon reopening the Assembly is to put the budget in question?"

Victory was assured when the powerful Socialist bloc decided to swing behind Gaillard. A majority of the right and left-of-center Popular Republicans (MRP) also gave him their support. The Premier's own radical-Socialists were split. Main opposition came from the Communists and section of the right.

Farm Union Chief Flabbergasted By Ike Ag Message

DENVER (AP)—James Patton, president of the National Farmers Union, said Thursday that President Eisenhower's farm message to Congress left him flabbergasted at the ignorance the President shows about farm economics.

Eisenhower asked for lower price supports on basic crops and dairy products and for fewer production controls.

"The President's reasons for this so-called 'progress program' might have made some sense in 1893, but this is 1958," Patton said in a prepared statement.

Regarding the President's comment that under the proposed 14-point program, farmers would benefit more from their ability to produce, Patton said:

"Farmers have been paying the price for their ability to produce for five years now. The President's program just makes this situation worse. It won't improve the farmer's lot one iota. It just digs him deeper into the hole."

Writer Of Series, Carroll Daly, Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Carroll J. Daly, 68, who wrote the "Race Williams" series for the Saturday Evening Post, is dead, following a long illness.

Daly retired five years ago. His books included "Race Williams Cuts In," "Dead Men Do Tell" and "The Importance of Being Ernie."

He is survived by a son, John Daly, a movie and TV actor.

Kings Celebrate

CULLY, Switzerland (AP)—A pair of ex-kings of Egypt got together. It was the 6th birthday of Prince Faud, who nominally was King Faud II in absentia for a brief time after the 1952 Egyptian revolution unseated and exiled his father, ex-King Farouk.

Farouk, now 38, brought an extra taxicab load of presents to the closely guarded party for Faud.

He named Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) chairman to work with Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) and Republicans Wiley (Wis) and H. Alexander Smith (N.J.) to recommend plans for the inquiry.

Democrats have disavowed any intention to use the review for criticism of Secretary of State Dulles and administration policies. They said they would invite his "fullest co-operation" in the study.

PAUL ROBESON

... criticism from London

London Sketch Advises Robeson To 'Stay Away'

LONDON (INS)—The London Daily Sketch, in an editorial headed "River Stay Away from Our Door," commented Thursday on invitations for singer Paul Robeson to visit Britain this spring.

The Sketch agreed that Robeson is a fine singer, but said he is not wanted over here . . . as a left-wing propagandist he has done his best to undermine the West."

The newspaper claimed that Robeson once called the British Empire "one of the greatest enslavers of human beings in the world."

"How do you 'enslavers' like the idea of having him in your sitting rooms," the politically Conservative tabloid asked.

Questions Unanswered

WASHINGTON (INS)—The State Department reported that Paul Robeson has so far refused to answer questions about his Communist connections to qualify for a passport to make a concert tour of Britain this spring.

Department spokesman Joseph Reap has filled out all parts of the passport application except the three questions about membership in the Communist Party.

He said Robeson's attorney has made numerous calls to the State Department to discuss the application, but that the Negro singer has thus far shown no willingness to complete the form.

Robeson recently announced plans to make a concert tour of Britain in April and said he was confident the State Department would grant him a passport to make the trip.

Robeson has for many years been connected with various activities cited as Red fronts and has been investigated several times by Congressional committees.

Confessed Slayer Gives Widow Of Cop Life Savings

DENVER (INS)—Donald Carl Zorens, a 24-year-old ex-convict who admitted he fatally shot Denver patrolman Donald Seick last Sunday, gave his life savings Thursday to the officer's widow and six children.

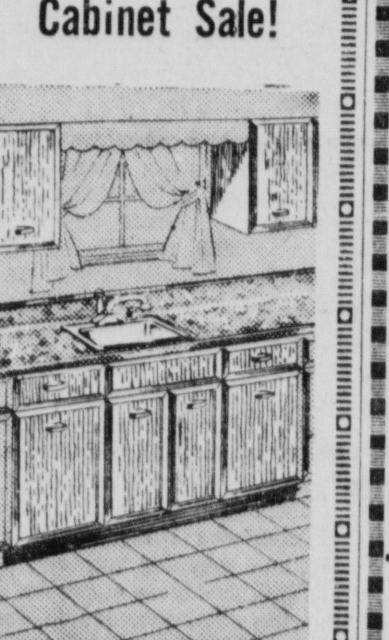

His savings, he said, would amount to only a few hundred dollars, mostly in U.S. savings bonds.

Commented Zorens:

"I think they will take my life."

2 Red Ships OK'd To Dock At Midway

HONOLULU (AP)—The U.S. Navy Thursday granted the request of two grain-laden Russian ships, one with a cracked deck and both low on fuel and supplies after a north Pacific storm, for permission to put in at the restricted Midway Island military base.

The ships are the Gen. Panfilov and the Odessa, both en route to Vladivostok from Vancouver, B.C.

Earlier the Navy said permission could not be granted until it was determined whether an emergency existed, and the Coast Guard cutter Bering Strait left on a 500-mile dash to investigate. The Navy oiler Ashtabula also was diverted to rendezvous with the Panfilov and the Odessa, but the Bering Strait was expected to reach them first.

The Navy granted similar permission to the British freighter Ripley without investigation. The Ripley reported her fuel and water supplies were so low from fighting the same storm she could not make another port.

Humanitarian

The Navy announcement, from Adm. Maurice E. Curtis, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, said permission was granted "in order to prevent loss of life and for other humanitarian reasons."

A spokesman said the Panfilov has a cracked deck and both Russian ships are low on water and fuel.

The harbor at Midway is closed for security purposes to all civilian ships. The Navy is building a 40-million dollar advance base there for its airborne early warning wing.

The Navy announcement came eight hours before either the Bering Strait or the Ashtabula were due to reach the Russian ships.

Beave Honored By Fellow Officers

Some 27 police officers, former and present city, county and state officials and friends presented a gift to Capt. W. Paul Beave of the Lincoln Police Department, who is new Lancaster County adult probation officer and jury commissioner, at a dinner held Thursday night for the police officer.

Beave termed his police work "a wonderful experience" and said he looked forward to the "challenge" of his new post in which he said he hoped he could be a service "to the judges and the community."

Joe T. Carroll, Lincoln police chief, in honoring Beave, who has had 19 years service with the Lincoln force, said he was "an 18 carat police officer" and wished him "God speed."

Salaries Of Phelps Officials Stay Same

HOLDREGE, Neb. (AP)—The Phelps County Board of Supervisors, hoping to hold the line on taxes, announced that salaries of county officials would not be raised in 1958.

Salaries of full-time elected officials range from $2,800 to $3,500 per year. The board said the statewide county officials organization had recommended $4,000 as a salary minimum.

Sen. Gore Urges AEC Be Put In Charge Of Space Projects

Friday, January 17, 1958 THE LINCOLN STAR 3

... Introduces Nuclear-Rocket Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.) Thursday urged that the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) be put in charge of space travel and other projects of the space age.

He made the proposal in a Senate speech introducing a bill to authorize spending a billion dollars for atomic and thermonuclear power projects as well as development of nuclear-propelled, manned space rockets.

"The Atomic Energy Commission, with its network of national laboratories, staffed with nuclear scientists, is uniquely qualified to perform the technical work required for the development of manned, nuclear rockets, capable of space travel," Gore said.

"There is no necessity for creating an additional agency to undertake the task. We must utilize the technical proficiency available to the Atomic Energy Commission to the fullest extent if the United States is to remain the pre-eminent power in this atomic age."

'Space Business'

Earlier Thursday, Deputy Secretary of Defense Quarles said the military is "going into the space business" with a new agency authorized to plan such things as space ships.

He referred to the Advanced Research Projects Agency (ARPA) which Secretary of Defense McElroy plans to create.

Quarles was questioned by newsmen about a statement by Rep. Hollifield (D-Calif.) of the Senate House Atomic Energy Committee that "no new and imaginative program is being advocated by the AEC or the Department of Defense; nothing startling is on the drawing boards."

Quarles said the department has a lot of programs that seemed new and imaginative to him and that to him "drawing board" means the study stage. "That's where they are," he said.

Sen. Gore's far-reaching bill includes one section authorizing 400 million dollars for government-built atomic reactors to generate electric power. This same proposal passed the Senate in 1956, but was beaten in the House with the administration fighting it.

Space Vehicle

The other 600 million would be available for work on nuclear propulsion of rockets, initiation of a project for a manned and controlled space vehicle, and for an all-out effort to harness the energy of the hydrogen bomb as a power source.

As to the atomic power program, Gore said he long had felt the nation's effort was "grossly inadequate."

"Because of tardiness in our program of atomic power, we are fast losing, if we have not already lost, our pre-eminence in this field," he said.

The senator said some persons believe manned space vehicles were considered seriously only after Russia launched its earth satellites. But he asserted "such is not the case."

He said for several years the Senate House Atomic Energy Committee, on which he serves, "has been supporting a project on which the Air Force and the Atomic Energy Commission have been working and which, if successfully completed, will serve as a basis for the development of space travel."

Funds Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman for the President's committee on scientists and engineers called Thursday for 190 million dollars a year in federal funds for basic research in colleges.

Spokesman, President Eric A. Walker of Pennsylvania State University, said this is "the most important" thing the federal government could do to catch up with recent Soviet strides in science.

He spoke to a news conference called to discuss a national conference Feb. 3-4 at Yale University.

The conference will assemble 200 representatives of science, education, labor, religion and other groups from throughout the country. It is being sponsored jointly by the committee and the William Benton Foundation.

Purpose of the conference, Walker said, is to stir a reawakening of America's scientific education system on all levels of schooling.

Home Savings, Loan Officers All Re-Elected

All officers and directors of the Home Savings and Loan Assn. of Lincoln were re-elected at the group's annual meeting Thursday.

During 1957 the Association moved to its new offices in the Federal Securities Bldg., 13th and N.

Loans made by Home Savings and Loan increased 10 per cent during 1957 over 1956 totals and the company paid a 4 per cent per annum dividend on savings.

Mortgages made on Lincoln homes remained at about the same level, the Association reported.

Officers and other directors re-elected Thursday:

J. C. Todd, president; Ralph H. Gillan, vice president and attorney; Les A. Ow, secretary-treasurer; Earl Carter, director; Jack E. Bogan, director.

National Cancer Official Aids Local Program Planning

Louis Davis, national field representative for the American Cancer Society, met with members of the Lincoln-Lancaster County Cancer Unit Thursday in Lincoln.

Plans were discussed for a year-around cancer program in Lancaster County.

The meeting was in conjunction with a four-week campaign by the Nebraska Division of the American Cancer Society to organize permanent cancer units in 50 Nebraska counties.

Dr. Robert A. Hillyer is president of the Lincoln-Lancaster County unit.

Woman Pleads Guilty To Forged Check Charge

Helen Plach, 21, of Denver, Colo., pleaded guilty Thursday in Lancaster District Court to "uttering and publishing a forged instrument."

Judge Harry A. Spencer deferred sentencing pending a report by the adult probation office. Mrs. Plach is charged with having a $28 forged check in her possession Dec. 24th and with having intent to defraud.

Ground Broken For Student Union Addition

A few stones were turned in the parking lot behind the student union building as students and faculty members broke ground for the University of Nebraska Student Union addition, estimated to cost about $1,267,862. Excavation will start this month and construction is expected to be completed in the summer of 1959. Participants in the groundbreaking ceremonies

NU Faculty Members Oppose Coloradan's Student Criticism

University of Nebraska faculty members expressed surprise and opposition to a University of Colorado professor's statement that four out of five university students should be sent home.

Dr. Walter Orr Roberts, director of the Colorado University high altitude observatory, spoke out recently at a faculty meeting, admitting:

"I wish we had guts to flunk out promptly all the kids who are no good. It should be difficult for a student to stay here. As we're constituted, we should send about 80 per cent of them home."

Dr. Roberts met with mixed reaction at his own university after the statement, and some faculty members sided with his statement that easy subjects should be thrown out ruthlessly. He named specifically courses in education, psychology and life adjustment.

'A Social Club'

Roberts asked: "Is the university doing a proper job of teaching or is it running a social club? Is its physical education program designed to produce healthy bodies or to provide a professional spectacle? Is the school teaching hard ideals or the sophisticated art of getting along in a world of petty deceit?"

The discussion was aimed at American colleges in general and not at the University of Colorado alone.

One Lincoln professor commented that the Colorado tempest "seems to reflect on the teaching rather than on the students. Despite the connotation the phrase has gained, 'mass education' is an important goal for universities, in order to gain enough trained minds to meet the complexities of the modern world."

'A Stupid Statement'

"A stupid statement about a subject which needs much more study," answered one NU administrator, who added that "we must have realistic standards of teaching and of intelligence of students—not live in a dream world where

Grossman To USO National Council Term

The board of governors of the United Service Organizations has elected Nathan Grossman of Lincoln to membership in the USO National Council for a one-year term.

Purpose of the USO National Council is to provide a medium through which USO, in matters of policy, may obtain advice, review and co-operation from leading representative citizens throughout the country," officials said.

The 1958 meeting of the Council will be held in Washington, D.C., March 5-6.

Grossman is chairman of the local USO committee and has been active in USO work since 1942. He also has been state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, commander of American Legion Post 3 of Lincoln and chairman of the Jewish Welfare Federation for this district.

Wrong Over Right

A discussion this week on city planning in Lincoln brought up the city of Little Rock, Ark. It was pointed out that while notorious for quite another reason, Little Rock had made very great strides in urban renewal.

Many areas of the city have been placed under an urban renewal program, thereby turning uneconomic and unproductive land into a useful part of the community. At the same time, the city's tax base has been strengthened and living conditions for the citizens have been materially improved.

How unfortunate that this story of Little Rock was not the one which went around the world and placed high on all the lists of top news stories for 1957. All that many people now know about Little Rock and perhaps all they will ever know are the bitterness and hatred of segregation. Not only Little Rock but the entire United States was branded with the integration iron as a result of the school issue in that Arkansas city.

What a contrast urban renewal is to the principles of integration. It is not only unfortunate but it presents a situation that is difficult to understand. The most gifted writer would have had little success, if any, selling the Little Rock urban renewal story even on a nation-wide basis, much less world-wide. It is a peculiar thing that we should parade our faults so prominently, yet never mention the great achievements that are constantly being made.

Holding Bids Secret

Scratch most Nebraska grain farmers today and you will not find a Tartar as they used to say about the Russian, and perhaps still should. You are more apt to uncover a question mark. Lift the mark and under it the question for all of them will be the same, namely, What is the dollar range of the per acre bidding in this new test program of total take-out soil bank plan?

As a steadily growing number of operators are hoping to cure their price and production problems by accepting a minimum five to ten year subsidy for getting entirely out of production this matter of what is the other fellow bidding has become as pressing as the lid of department censorship is tight.

It is a curious program that was offered by the department without defining how much the government was prepared to enter within a certain range of payments nor even making it clear how many acres it contemplated accepting

Threat To REA Movement

Of all the various bits of bad news contained in President Eisenhower's 14 point program for a cutback of the federal farm program his suggestion that credit sources for REA development be broadened deserves special attention.

By the term "broadening" the President means less lending by the Rural Electrification Administration and more borrowing by the REA's wherever they can get it at whatever price they have to pay.

About-Face

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

President Eisenhower in his State of the Union message to Congress last week and President Eisenhower at a news conference this week looked like two different people. Speaking a week ago about the nation's military organizations, the President was strong and firm in his assertion that reorganization was needed in the defense organization. "Soon my own conclusions will be finalized," he said. "I shall promptly take such executive action as is necessary and, in a separate message, I shall present appropriate recommendations to Congress."

The President was applauded from nearly all quarters for these words of encouragement. It looked from what he said as though a messy situation in the Pentagon was going to get immediate and high-level attention. The bitter and costly service rivalries were going to be eliminated. The past waste of manpower and loss to the services of valuable personnel were going to be stopped before more damage was done. This, however, was evidently not the right interpretation of the President's word. For at his last conference with newsmen, Eisenhower said that his own idea of what should be done, "no matter how strong, cannot be the final answer." He said the final answer must be worked out after many conferences in which the views of Congress and the three armed services will be sought. The President reminded his listeners that his term will expire in three years and whatever plan is adopted must extend beyond that time. The two separate discussions of the matter by the President leave two different views of what might be expected in the future.

It appeared from his remarks to Congress that he personally was going to take command of the situation and would not be long in recommending changes that would cure the ills of service rivalry. Now, it looks as though he will be doing just the opposite. It is one thing to obtain the views of informed advisers and quite another to permit the advisers to be a final determining factor. Eisenhower apparently is going to let the matter rest with his advisers. He said as much when he stated that he would not press his own views if they meet with any major opposition. This does not seem to be the role of the President of the United States. In the final analysis, it is the President who is expected to make the decisions.

A major criticism of the present administration has been that too many decisions were being made by assistants and cabinet members. And in this case, it apparently will be done with the President's knowledge and consent. Such delegation of authority and responsibility can only lead to confusion and more wasteful activity by the services. As to the fact that Eisenhower feels reluctant to make changes which a future administration will have to work with, the feeling is ridiculous. What could ever be accomplished if each President held such an opinion? Every President will eventually be followed by another but that is no excuse for failure to make major decisions or changes when they are obviously needed. The principles and concepts involved here are so basic and so obvious that they are not given subject to argument. Yet, the President has chosen to follow a road leading in the opposite direction to this logic. If he persists in his stand, a great deal of the current defense effort will have been wasted.

If nothing comes from the President on the organizational setup for the services, Congress will surely step in to do what it feels is necessary. This would unquestionably lead to a political settlement and even more fighting and bickering between the services than now exists. By failing to act as he believes, the President will not make things any easier for his successor. If he fails to initiate the needed changes, then Congress will and the next President will have to live with that, like it or not. Therein lies the paradox of Eisenhower's concern for tying up a future administration.

FCC Probed But Findings Cached

WASHINGTON—After a bitter, all-day backstage battle, the Moulder Committee finally decided to side-step an inquiry into corruption inside the Federal Communications Commission, the agency which decides who will get valuable radio-TV licenses. A quarter-of-a-million dollars had been appropriated by Congress to pay for the investigation, and almost every penny has now been spent in advance preparation.

But the committee turned around and voted not to bring out the dynamite-laden facts its probes had unearthed, even though the $250,000 may be wasted. The facts were too hot to handle. The committee vote was 6 to 2. The two who voted to let the public know what was happening were: John Moss of California and Morgan Moulder of Missouri, both Democrats.

The men who fought hardest to keep the public in the dark were John Heselton of Massachusetts and Joe O'Hara of Minnesota, both members of the GOP, a clique which emitted prolonged cheers when this writer was exposing hams, deep freezes, and mink coats under the Democrats.

Having exposed scandal under the Democrats, however, this column herewith publishes some of the scandal which the Republicans now want to suppress. One scandal involves the grant of television Channel 10 in Miami.

involved the grant of television Channel 10 in Miami.

After 10 years of debate, from 1947 to 1957, Channel 10 went to National Airlines—the first time in history that an airline has been granted a TV station. Oral arguments were heard on July 13, 1954, and an FCC examiner, Herbert Sharfman, a competent civil servant of excellent reputation, wrote a 50-page opinion recommending that Channel 10 go to Frank Katzenine, prominent Miami civic leader. But in February, 1957, the commission reversed its examiner, awarded the channel to an airline which has been close to President Eisenhower's brother-in-law, Col. Gordon Moore.

George "Ted" Baker, president of National Airlines, admitted when questioned that Colonel Moore had visited him frequently in Miami. The time of the visits was during, and shortly after, the preliminary recommendation awarded National Airlines.

One reason GOP congressmen bucked against any FCC probe was because of White House calls to FCC members attempting to dictate their decision. Also important is the strange role played by FCC Commissioner Richard Mack in the Channel 10 case.

Redirected Impulses For Easy Retirement

Pete is retiring this month. He can do it because for 30 years he has paid for everything he wanted and could afford, but hasn't always bought it.

When I heard about Pete's impending retirement on his 55th birthday anniversary, I wondered how he could do it. He has never travelled in the upper income brackets, yet here all at once he has a slug of cash big enough to finance the years ahead—and there should be plenty of them, considering his age and good health.

That was when he told me about the Redirected Impulse Plan.

"The way it started was by accident," Pete said. "I was about 25 then, and had my first car, and was crazy about gadgets. One day I saw a fancy horn—remember the old kind that used to fasten on the outside and make funny noises?—and right away I wanted that horn real bad. You might say I had an impulse to buy it."

"Well, sir, it was priced at $2.50, which was a lot of money those days, and I dug in my pockets and came up with the money. That was when the clerk said the horn was the only one like it that they had, and it had been sold, but if I wanted to wait a couple weeks, they'd have some more. So I folded up the $2.50 and put it in my watch pocket, intending to save it out."

"Having that $2.50 as a sort of reserve made me feel good during the next few days, and the impulse to buy the horn sort of died out, seeing that I didn't really need it. That might have been all there was to it if the next thing I got an impulse to buy hadn't been $2.50, too. It was a fancy stickpin, like we used to wear in neckties.

"Not wanting to touch my reserve, I dug down into my regular cash—and then all at once I says to myself, 'Say, if you didn't buy this, but put the $2.50 in your watch pocket, you'd have a whole $5 saved up.' And that's what I've been doing ever since."

Since then, Pete has married, put two children through school, paid out the mortgage on a nice house, and not missed more than most people miss of the ordinary activities of living and playing. I looked around his place, seeing television set, good furniture, some fine paintings. I thought of the new model car in his garage. I said, "You haven't resisted too many impulses, Pete."

"You don't have to," Pete grinned. "All you got to do is, when you do resist the impulse to, say, buy the third drink, put the price of it in a separate pocket, and then see that it gets to the bank and stays there. The only real big impulse I ever resisted was to buy an airplane, that my wife wouldn't have let me learn to fly anyway. Boy, did I have a time making payments on that impulse!"

"Payments?" "Sure, I didn't have the cash, but I could've managed the payments. I made 'em into the impulse account at the bank, instead. Mostly, though, it's the frivolous little things I haven't bought, but have paid for. Sometimes it's only a quarter or 50 cents. You'd be surprised how they mount up. I have seen Pete's bank account, and it's true. You'd be surprised. Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate

Ike Switches From Early Firm Stand

WASHINGTON — At his press conference this week President Eisenhower doffed the battle dress of his State of the Union message and slipped back into the role of chairman of the board.

The decisive tenor of the message was replaced with the familiar discursiveness. The unedited text of the press conference fully supports the view of many reporters that in fact the President had usual difficulty in making the language serve him.

Congress got the impression that the President intended to drive through clear-cut Pentagon plans of his own from language like this: "Strategic planning and control . . . must be done under unified direction. To end interservice disputes requires clear organization and decisive central direction."

To reporters, the President almost disavowed his special experience in military matters and made it very plain that the "decisive central direction" would not bear his brand. He said he would be commander-in-chief for a fixed period, which would not exceed more than three more years, so his convictions shouldn't be the final answer. He said there must be a consensus with the cabinet, the Congress, the people that operate the services, that he would be the last to ask for a detailed organization in which he believed.

The President told Congress that "we should strive to finance the 1959 security effort out of expected revenues. We must apply stern tests of priority to other expenditures, both civil and military."

Put by reporters to a choice between deficit spending and raising taxes to maintain a balanced budget, the President said his own feeling was that with a reasonable amount of expenditures, even if that did mean somewhat upsetting of that precariously balanced budget, it would be better than talking about a tax bill at this time.

The President had responded so quickly and so clumsily, one reporter decided to return to the topic.

The President repeated that some "necessary deficit" would be better than to start the question of tax-raising. If tax income lessened, he said, he would want the economy to have "a little needle" rather than a check rein on it.

This is, of course, government pump-priming, a theory Republicans have long attributed to Democrats and have roughly equated with original sin.

The question is being raised here as to which man is Mr. Eisenhower, the January 9 message or the January 15 press conference. Perhaps what he himself said to reporters is illuminating.

He said with respect to his physical future that he would carry on exactly as in the past and that the last five years had not been much rougher than he had anticipated. He said he was doing everything he possibly could now in the way of consultation and communication to persuade Congress and that he would continue to urge and argue far more behind the scenes than in front.

Getting The Jump On The 'January Jumps'

By MONA B. PARKER

Fae Montgomery, staff side of the Morrill Mail editorial team, proves herself a woman first, and a news-hound second, in her dissertation on an institution near and dear to the feminine heart—the bargain sales that follow the holidays. She ponders why it is that every sale-goer stocks up on goods not really needed. "My mother used to tell us girls that if we had no use for anything, it wasn't a bargain." Then she describes expertly the metamorphic pandemonium that turns usually gentle persons into rude and inconsiderate item-snatchers. Caught in such a bedlam once, she vowed never to be so engulfed again. "I firmly believe that one such sale is far more expensive, on nerves and wear and tear on your person, than if you pay the original price. Where's the next sale?"

Helen Lough of the Albion News Loughs was dueling listlessly with the doldrums, a victim of the inevitable mood slump that follows all the exciting hustle and bustle of activity of December and its climax . . . the "January Jumps," she calls it. One whole day had symbolized the way she felt, and she would have removed it bodily from the calendar if she had been able . . .

" . . . a day when the dog makes too much noise, you break a dozen and a half eggs in the refrigerator, something boils over on the stove . . . a day when the patter of little feet sounds like a buffalo stampede . . . the wind howls and the whole outside world is frozen hard, and any sweetness and light that might once have warmed your spirit is likewise frozen."

The affliction can't last, however, she consoles fellow sufferers. At least, no longer than the remainder of the month, at which time it may then be replaced by the "February Flutters."

Irina Leggett of the Ord Quiz was reviewing personal projects, both accomplished and those still in the dream stage . . .

"Always meant to take up flying and get the Indian sign on it. Meant to all during War Two. Set it down as a 'future.' But felt elderly and perishable one day and decided likely my reflexes were all gone. I was too old . . . better raise my family instead of taking dive. So, no flying yet."

Celia Black, Central City Republican-Nonpareil columnist, hard as daily clean-up tasks, explained how a farmer's wife could tell you just what season of the year it is by no other means except what she sweeps into her dust pan . . .

"Right now it's the battle of overshoes bringing in snow, mud, sand, and other things that make a farm a farm. Then there's the period of wheat, oats, milo and even soybeans. I find them in every room in the house . . . Worst of all is irrigation time, and the mud . . ."

She is happily practical about the whole thing, though, thinking of "all the nice wheat and corn and milo and soybeans and brooms and vacuum cleaners this nice irrigation mud will produce."

With the thermometer shivering at 10 below zero, Mrs. LeRoy Ahndt from north of Scribner describes chore time . . .

"The snow squeaks as you walk, doing chores. A wet mitten sticks to any metal object it touches. Ice everywhere. The cattle hate to move. They just stand and double up, hoping this weather won't last too long . . ."

"As you carry hobbles with your bare hands from one cow to another, somehow you get mighty cold fingers and toes, and your nose gets red . . ."

"But it's worth it—it feels so good when you stand by the stove and get warm again. And maybe have that second cup of coffee . . ."

"Cornbread weather . . ."

In their very young days, Mrs. J. W. Tyler recalled, every girl cut pine needles to fill a small pillow, and embroidered them touchingly with such sentiments as "For thee I pine, for thee I balsam." A neighbor of Mrs. Tyler's found hers in an old attic trunk, still retaining its faint woody odor. The Peruvian was of half a mind to make another, perhaps deleting the touching caption, "for they were quite tranquilizing when we were struggling with insomnia."

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Speaking for the Lancaster County Chapter of the American Red Cross and the state conference planning committee, I wish to thank The Lincoln Star for the fine coverage of the statewide Red Cross conference held in Lincoln on January 7. We were fortunate to have Gen. Lucius D. Clay, volunteer 1958 national fund chairman, as our featured speaker for the meeting. However, the success of the conference also depended upon the co-operation of our many fine volunteers in Lincoln and throughout the state. Thanks to The Star staff for the fine reporting of this state event.

Ways Of The Hen

Montgomery, Ala.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I have seen times when the following story of hens would have been headed "Fowl Ways" but today, when we are faced with such serious international problems, I would prefer it termed "Hen Sense."

Late one fall, eight young hens were put in a yard with several older ones. The newcomers were not allowed to come near the feed trough when the older ones were there; in fact, there was little tolerance on the part of the older hens for the younger ones on any occasion until the first real cold morning every hen in the yard, young and old, was seen very closely grouped together in order to keep warm. They recognized the common enemy.

Today when we see the human race facing the discomforting reality of war, would it not be wise to recognize as did the hens the value of unity against the common enemy?

Another thing I have noted about hens — when a fight begins among them, there is always one that will come up and separate the

Screw Loose

Broken Bow, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Your editorial, "Not Only Ones Wrong," in the January 14 Star asked some very pertinent questions relative to the scrap in the Pentagon. However, there is a far bigger and more hazardous question involved in competition with the Soviet government.

In The Star on January 15 it had simmered down to the President's demands, which we expected in his speech to the nation. It seems we have a stop-watch in our system of financing. That means further inflation. What will the Federal Reserve do about that? Believe it or not, some people are going to suffer the pangs of want. As for Lyndon Johnson and his cohorts from Texas, it is immaterial beside the question. They want to go into outer space and whip the Russians who have dared to hang their flag on the moon.

That brings up the questions—what do the Russians use for money? Do we supply it through our free nations and their satellites? We small fry are not supposed to know. We leave it to the big brass. But can they tell us how come we are stymied for the want of more billions of dollars and the Russians keep right on putting their flag on the South Pole. Who knows? They may have their flag on Jupiter.

There is a big brass screw loose somewhere, and so far they haven't found it.

First Things First

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: As I read the papers it appears to me that the big concern in Washington right now is to find out who was the villain in our loss of military power against the Reds. The latest report I get is that General Curtis LeMay is the man. He made a bum decision several years ago. Yesterday it was someone else. Tomorrow it will still be someone else.

This hunting for a goat strikes me as a waste of time. I don't think there is anyone in the United States smart enough to do all the damage that has been done. I think it took the entire wits of the American people plus most of official America to do it. Would it not be better if we turned our attention to getting back in the race. There is no use holding an inquest until we have made sure that the court house won't be blown up while we are at it.

POSTCARD

There is a nice 24-hour bustle of business about Mexico City. I think half the town stays up nights to keep the other half awake.

The Hotel Monte Cassino was built in the quiet residential district. But the years go by. And now the district has some dozen restaurants and a couple of booming night clubs.

While the bands play rock 'n' roll, the car watchers stand under the windows and discuss affairs of state.

"Man, I came within two numbers of the first prize!"

"Ay!" scream the listeners in chorus.

"Pancho Lopez fue a la revolucion!" sings the man in the nightclub.

"Boom! Boom!" goes the drum. We are a gay bunch at night in Mexico.

Traffic swirls around the circular monument parks on the Paseo de la Reforma—miles from crumpled disaster.

But this is a city without parking problems.

Parking is handled by the car watchers. The amiable, talkative gentlemen under the window. They are uniformed vaguely in khaki and wear a shield on the cap. They park your car. They work for tips—one peso is about right.

The cars are stacked two and three deep on each side of the street.

Naturally this solves all parking problems. When every street is a car park.

When a car is moved, ALL the car watchers within two blocks come around and kibitz.

"TURN RIGHT! NOW BACK! AY, MAN, WATCH IT!"

Mexico City has outlawed blowing automobile horns. Auto horns was one reason I moved out to this peaceful section some years ago.

It used to be that everybody stopped at a traffic light simply leaned on the horn until the light turned green. Then the people at the red light leaned on their horns. That was something!

When the city suddenly fell silent, many Mexicans complained they were unable to sleep. It was too quiet.

The law on horn blowing is gradually falling into disrepair. And when a snarl develops on the street, there are short bursts of tooting. There is nearly always a snarl on my street.

There are more lottery ticket sellers on my street than any street in Mexico.

The ticket seller has a high, thin cry. Like a hog caller.

"Para hoy! Para hoy! For today! For today!"

During the morning hours, we are tearing down a building across the street. We start about 6 in the morning. In the afternoon, we have the hurdy-gurdy and the lottery sellers. And at night, the nightclub band and the car watchers. It keeps us on our toes. Right up to the chandelier.

Veteran Swimmer, Traveler, Old Dog Butch Claims Longevity Record: 23

By HAL HASSELBALCH
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska, it has been recognized for some time, is extraordinary for the longevity of its people. Now a Nebraska native in the canine category is on his way to making a longevity record.

Butch is a cocker-terrier mixture who is 23 for sure and probably at least 24. He was first adopted by Delta Upsilon fraternity at 1701 E. Shortly afterward he was in an accident and broke his leg.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Crancer of Denver at that time lived at 1731 E. They were given the dog and undertook the job of nursing him back to health. Butch still favors the leg a little, but he is exceptionally active in spite of his age and infirmities.

He goes swimming every time he gets a chance and when there is no water around he takes rigid constitutional around the hotel or home where he happens to be.

A Veteran Swimmer

His penchant for swimming has made him a veteran of the waters of the Atlantic, Pacific, Gulf of Mexico, Lake Mead and countless rivers from coast to coast in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

On land he can also take care of himself. Left on the fourth floor of a huge Santa Fe N.M. hotel, Butch found his way to the ground and threaded his way to the side of Mrs. Crancer in the Plaza, the busy part of the town.

This determination is manifest throughout other aspects of Butch's personality. He has an acute sense of smell. If his master brings home a new tennis ball, Butch knows it the moment his master enters the door.

Tennis balls being his favorite toys, he begs for the ball. Failing in that, Butch will sniff and bark at the drawer where the ball is placed until he finally gets his way.

He will not make friends with just anybody. Some persons utterly disgust Butch and he either barks at them or ignores them. He spurns efforts of one of the Crancers' neighbors who has tried repeatedly to make up with Butch. Proffer of a brand new tennis ball was no inducement to friendship.

Ate Painter's Lunch

When the Crancers were having their home redecorated recently, Butch decided to try the lunch of one of the painters. He managed to open the lunch and devour it before he was caught.

Maybe some of these antics may be attributed to the fact that Butch is in his second puppyhood. Three years ago he was deaf. He had a stroke and was badly paralyzed. Now Butch has regained his hearing and the only noticeable remnant of his stroke is an inability to raise one ear.

His teeth are worn to the gums but he eats a special food for canine oldsters so his coat is as thick and shiny as a young pup's. He is gray around the muzzle. He has cataracts but his sight is still good enough for him to spot tennis balls.

Figuring seven years of a human's life as comparable to one of a dog's, Butch is about the equivalent of a 168-year-old person. A Lincoln veterinarian, who specializes in treating dogs, said Butch was the oldest dog he had seen.

Most dogs his age would be curled up in a warm spot in the house. Butch prefers to travel. He has been with the Crancers continually since they left home early in December.

Such jaunts have taken him to almost every state in the Union and Crancer estimates Butch has traveled at least 100,000 miles. As a hardened traveler Butch has become well-known in many hotels around the country.

When Mrs. Crancer comes to Lincoln alone, hotel personnel ask not "Where is Mr. Crancer?" but "Where is Butch?"

Lincolnite Avoids Deportation With Mexican Amparos

LAREDO, Tex. (AP)—A Lincolnite is one of two Americans who used the Mexican "amparos," similar to a court injunction in the United States, to avoid deportation from Nuevo Laredo.

William Anthony Woodrum, 24, of Lincoln, and Robert Wilkerson, 24, are under $7,000 bonds at Kansas City on burglary charges.

The pair had been in Monterrey for several months before they were arrested and brought to the border by officers and taken to the immigration office for deportation. They escaped and got a lawyer. He went before Federal Judge Manuel G. Toro Flores, who granted a temporary injunction against their arrest.

Woodrum and Wilkerson appeared with the injunction and demanded Woodrum's car which officers gave them.

New Hilton Hotel

BERLIN (AP)—A traditional German "roof-raising" ceremony took place this week on the new four million dollar Hilton Hotel here. It is expected to open late this year. The 350-room place is about a mile from Red-ruled East Berlin.

Airline Service Arguments Set ... For February 15

Final oral arguments in the seven states airline case will be heard Feb. 15 in Washington, D.C., according to Rolland Harr, State Aeronautics Department head.

Harr urged persons interested in testifying to notify Francis W. Brown, Civil Aeronautics Board chief examiner in Washington, by Feb. 13.

Each witness, except those directly involved, will be allowed only 10 minutes to present his case, Harr said.

Harr indicated he and Rush Clarke, North Platte special assistant attorney general assigned to the State Aeronautics Department, would present "Nebraska's case."

Harr's department has requested that the CAB consolidate several actions involving Nebraska airline service, for purposes of oral argument.

Pearson To Head Liberals

... Canada Vote

OTTAWA (AP)—Lester B. Pearson, former foreign secretary and recent winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, was elected Thursday night to lead Canada's Liberal party in its bid to regain control of the government from the Conservatives.

Election of the 60-year-old diplomat was the Canadian equivalent of being nominated for President by one of the major parties in the United States.

He was chosen by a vote of 1,074 to 305 over former Health Minister Paul Martin after a bitter fight in the Liberal party's fourth national convention in Canadian history.

Pearson will take over the mantle of former prime minister Louis St. Laurent, 75, who had been leader since 1948.

Pearson has been described as one of the best friends the United States ever had—but one of its most severe critics.

This is somewhat exaggerated both ways. It does contain a large amount of truth. A one-time ambassador to Washington, "Mike" Pearson has been a close collaborator with the United States in diplomacy, but has made clear he is no stooge.

There is little doubt, however, that if the Liberals regain power and Pearson becomes Prime Minister he will try to return to the traditionally close U.S.-Canadian relations, especially trade relations, which have suffered some strain under the Conservatives.

Dr. Frolik Speaker At Weed And Insect Meet

Dr. E. F. Frolik, associate director of the University of Nebraska Agricultural Experiment Station, was banquet speaker for the 12th annual Nebraska Weed and Insect Conference.

More than 175 persons attended opening sessions Thursday. The conference will end at noon Friday.

Bankruptcy Filed

A bankruptcy schedule listing liabilities of $1,928.51, including $1,351.67 as unsecured debts, was filed in Federal Court by Jerry P. Smith of Rt. 3 Lincoln, farm worker. Listed assets were valued at $265.

REACH FOR

International Policing Of Sky Urged By Sec. Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles proposed Thursday that Russia join in an international commission to police the skies to make sure outer space is dedicated solely to peace and not missiles.

Soviet Premier Bulganin, he said, should "jump at this chance" to ease international tensions before control of new space weapons becomes impossible.

"I certainly hope from the depths of my heart," Dulles said, "that the emphasis President Eisenhower put on this in his letter (to Bulganin last Sunday) will find a response by Bulganin."

Dulles issued his new challenge to the Kremlin in answering questions after a speech at a National Press Club luncheon. He focused mainly on prospects for East-West negotiations and warned against any belief that a summit conference could end the cold war "by a stroke of a pen."

Main Points

The secretary made these other main points in handling a shower of questions:

1. Red China should be barred from any summit meeting because it is not an "indispensable or proper" authority to discuss world problems. The United States has no reason to change its policy of refusing diplomatic recognition to the Peking regime but would not hesitate to meet with its representatives if it would serve peace.

2. American prestige stands higher than ever before with allied governments but he "can't say the same for public opinion... which is somewhat misled."

3. The United States is ready to join European countries in giving emergency financial aid to France provided it "gets its house in order at home."

4. The Hungarian revolt demonstrated Communism's "fatal defect"—an inability to blot out man's yearning for freedom even under dictatorship. This will lead to "the undoing" of Communism "in a decade or more," perhaps sooner.

Dangers Cited

Dulles, who has frequently spoken against the dangers of negotiations with the Soviets, sought to put his position in a positive light. He said:

"President Eisenhower's letter to Premier Bulganin should dissipate once and for all any impression that the United States does not want to negotiate, or is afraid to negotiate with Soviet rulers."

"The truth is quite the contrary. We do want a summit meeting, provided the proper conditions obtain."

200 Expected At Production Credit Association Meet

More than 200 farmers and stockmen are expected for the annual meeting of the Lincoln Production Credit Association Jan. 23 at the Lincoln Hotel.

R. L. Kalif, president, of York, will preside.

Principal speakers will be C. E. Fisher, head of the Texas Experimental Station in Lubbock, Tex.; Dr. J. B. Fuller of Torri n, Wyo., director of the Farm Credit Board, and J. E. Arner, assistant vice president of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Omaha.

Two directors will be elected for three year terms.

Mrs. Ida Hutson Dies At Age 84

Mrs. Ida Margaret Hutson, 84, who moved to Lincoln from Walhalla last month, died. She lived at 143 So. 27th.

Survivors include her husband, William M.; sister, Anna, of California; nieces, Mrs. Carol Beaudette of California and Alice Hutson of Lincoln, and nephew, Forest Hutson of Lincoln.

Ed G. Robinson Weds Designer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Edward G. Robinson, cigar-chewing "tough guy" of the movies and stage, married New York dress designer Jane Adler Thursday. Robinson is 64, his bride 38.

The ceremony was performed in nearby Arlington, Va.

Robinson, known for such roles as the tommy-gun toting "Little Caesar," is now starring here in the stage production of "Middle Of The Night." The play centers on the May-December marriage of a man with a much younger wife.

The stocky Romanian immigrant has appeared in more than 40 Broadway productions and scores of Hollywood films in the past 44 years. His roles ranged from a mobster to a patient scientist. "Middle Of The Night" had a run of 485 Broadway performances before going on the road.

Otto J. King, 79, Contractor, Dies

Otto J. King, 79, of 2700 Garfield, a painting contractor, died Thursday.

Born in Webster County, near Blue Hill, Mr. King came to Lincoln in 1921 from Bladen.

He was a member of Christ Methodist Church and the Painting and Decorating Contractors of America.

Surviving are his wife, Grace; sons, Porter, Darrel and Laverne, all of Lincoln, and Harold of Roseville, Calif.; daughters, Mrs. E. W. Eberspacher of Anderson, Calif., Mrs. M. A. Durbin of Lincoln; 10 grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; one niece and four nephews.

Omaha Hotel Appeals Decision On Assessment

The Paxton Hotel of Omaha Thursday asked the State Supreme Court to dismiss a Douglas County District Court decision in a tax assessment dispute with the Douglas County Board of Equalization.

The District Court had overruled a motion for a new trial. The hotel contended that the Equalization Board's March 1, 1956, assessment figure—$397,000, or 50 per cent of the total assessed value of $1,194,000—was too high.

Demos Protest Ike Retreat From Defense Reorganizing Idea

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some Democratic senators protested Thursday that President Eisenhower is retreating from his idea of reorganizing the Defense Department, but Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) disagreed.

"I still think they are going to come up with a recommendation," Knowland told newsmen. Knowland is the Senate's Republican leader.

After promising in his State of the Union message last week to take prompt executive action on the reorganization problem, Eisenhower told his news conference Wednesday that his own idea of what should be done, "no matter how strong, cannot be the final answer."

He said many conferences must be held to get the views of Congress and the three branches of the armed services on the problem. At the same time, Secretary of Defense McElroy announced he was organizing a panel of military and civilian experts to consult with him about reorganization.

'Unfortunate'

In a Senate speech Thursday, Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) said "yesterday was an unfortunate day in the history of our country" because of what he interpreted as a changed attitude on the President's part.

"If the President does not intend to try to implement his convictions, that may well mean nothing will be done to really modernize our defense structure—in which case the taxpayer will continue to pour money down the drain in order to maintain the unbusinesslike status quo now characteristic of our Defense Department," Symington said.

"As a result of this waste, even though in recent years we have spent hundreds of billions of dollars on our security, it is now universally recognized that neither our Army, Navy or Air Force is in the right condition to resist an attack, either directly against us or against any ally to whom we are irrevocably committed."

Responsibility

The Senate's Democratic leader, Sen. Johnson of Texas, called on Eisenhower to take full responsibility for reorganizing the Defense Department for the space age.

"This is properly an executive function, and detailed recommendations will be helpful to Congress," he said.

Johnson added that the President had said in his State of the Union message to Congress that "he was going to use his great experience to reorganize, and I had hoped he wouldn't retreat from that position."

Opinion Upholds Legislative Right To Allocate Tax Funds

The attorney general's office held Thursday that the Legislature has authority to allocate funds from a state sales and/or income tax back to counties or school districts "if it turned out that the new taxes brought in more money than was needed for state purposes."

The opinion, requested by Lt. Gov. Dwight Burney, was written by Deputy Attorney General Clarence A. H. Meyer and signed by Attorney General C. S. Beck.

Burney said he asked for the opinion since the question had been raised as to whether or not the Legislature could allocate any excess funds as the result of the constitutional amendment passed in 1934 which provides that a sales and/or income tax must replace the state property tax.

"I wanted to clear the air," the lieutenant governor stated.

'Without Question'

The opinion said, "We think that without question the Legislature could allocate any excess to political subdivisions such as counties or school districts."

The attorneys general noted that Nebraska's Supreme Court "has pointed out on a number of occasions that our constitution is not a grant but a restriction on legislative power and the Legislature may legislate upon any subject not inhibited by the constitution."

They said they knew of "no constitutional provision which would prevent allocation of excess collections back to political subdivisions of the state."

"As a matter of fact," the opinion continued, "the Legislature already makes allocations of that nature in the case of the gasoline tax."

Point At Provision

They pointed out that the constitution expressly provides that the "necessary revenue of the state and its governmental subdivisions shall be raised by taxation in such manner as the Legislature may direct."

The attorney general's office said that as a result of this, theoretically, the Legislature "could abolish entirely the right of both counties and school districts to levy any taxes whatever, and could allocate to them such state funds as the Legislature deemed necessary to carry on their governmental activities."

Several groups are now discussing ways and means of pushing enactment of a broadened tax base through the 1959 Legislature, including various proposals for some form of constitutional amendment to guarantee its passage.

Educational Groups

Some educational groups also are expressly concerned with obtaining more funds from such a broadened tax base for the support of the common schools in the state.

Burney, long an ardent supporter of a broadened tax base, said his requesting the opinion was not a slam at the groups trying to do something to enact a sales and/or income tax, but stated that he wasn't "sure" that a constitutional amendment "is the way to do it."

The lieutenant governor said, "I would never be opposed to seeing groups get together to do the thing I've been trying to do for so many years."

Dr. Steenberg Heads Patient Care Group

Dr. E. A. Steenberg of Aurora will head the Nebraska Joint Commission for Improvement of Patient Care during 1958.

He was named chairman at the Commission's annual meeting in Lincoln, succeeding Miss Emily Brickley of Lincoln, who was elected secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Ruth Shoemaker of Hastings is new vice chairman.

The Joint Commission, formed three years ago, serves as a coordinating agency for the Nebraska State Medical Assn., State Hospital Assn., State Nurses Assn., and the Nebraska League for Nursing.

16 At Joint Meet

About 16 representatives of these groups attended the joint meeting and 12 attended a special subcommittee meeting, both at Lincoln General Hospital.

Members discussed the advisability of asking the Legislature, at its next session, to set up a study committee on the needs of trained personnel in the various health fields.

The proposal will be taken to the parent organizations for approval before such a request is made.

At a subcommittee meeting, plans for the publication of a medical careers brochure were developed. The brochure, which would be sent to high school teachers, counselors and various youth group workers, is tentatively scheduled for publication later this year.

The next meeting of the Joint Commission will be held in Lincoln this April.

Lincoln Host To 190 Conventions During Past Year

A report compiled by the Chamber of Commerce shows that Lincoln was host to 190 conventions last year, 18 more than the previous year.

Registration for 1957 conventions totaled 50,811, up 8,450 from the year before.

Figures for December, 1957, show there were eight conventions, compared with five in that month the previous year. Registration totaled 965 for December, 1957, and 728 for the previous December.

AROUND THE TOWN

OUR usual check-up this morning brought to light some news from here and there that will be of considerable interest to Lincoln residents as well as those of various sections of Nebraska.

From Washington D.C. came word of the arrival of a daughter, Ann Leslie, on Tuesday, Jan. 14, to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thone. Miss Ann, however, made her world debut at Scottsbluff where Mrs. Thone the former Ruth Raymond, Delta Gamma at Nebraska, has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Ruth Davis.

The baby's paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John A. Thone of Lincoln.

BSP To Aid Easter Seals

Mrs. Jack Cederdahl presided at the meeting of the Beta Sigma Phi city council on Tuesday evening when Dr. Leroy Laase, chairman of the Lancaster County Easter Seal campaign, discussed plans for the annual drive.

Members of the sorority's 13 chapters in Lincoln will address and fill envelopes for the campaign.

Plans for the annual Valentine Queen contest were discussed by Ardis Hunt, and for the city-wide pledge training class to be held Jan. 17, with Mrs. Charles Bukin in charge.

Announcement was made that Aileen Cotton, sorority field representative from Kansas City, Mo., will visit the Lincoln chapters later this month.

Guests at the meeting were Helen Steward of Alpha Iota Chapter, Virginia Dolan and Zelma Shaffer, Xi Kappa Chapter.

The regular meeting of Lambda Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, was held Monday evening in the chapter rooms. Following the business meeting, a program, "Paths to Loveliness", was given by Miss JoAnne Spahr.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. V. Myers this week are their sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Myers of Denver, Colo., and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Myers of Marquette, Mich. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Myers stopped off in Lincoln en route home from Indianapolis where Mr. Myers attended the Great Lakes Mechanical Conference. While in Lincoln the guests also will visit their brothers and sisters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Rasche Myers and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Myers and their families.

Dear Abby . . .

Consider HER Reputation

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a man, 38 years old, am divorced from my wife and have three children who live with her. I recently met a wonderful girl, who is 20, through renting a room in the home of her parents. I am in no hurry to get married again, but if I ever do it will be to this girl. Her friends say it is wrong of me to take up her time without marrying her, and also that it looks bad that we are living in the same house. Now don't you think a man has a perfect right to live the way he wants to without interference from others?

KARL

DEAR KARL: A fellow's "right" to swing his arms ends where the other fellow's nose begins. Consider the girl's reputation.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of an old grouch who sits on his porch and just prays that the ball we are playing with lands in his yard because he said he would keep any ball that fell on his property? He kept one ball but my father made him give it back. Please print this, Abby, it might do him some good.

BUTCH, BOB, ROD AND JEFF

DEAR ABBY: I think this old fossil should leave himself to the Smithsonian Institute. He obviously never was a boy.

DEAR ABBY: I have been madly in love with my dentist for six years. He was single, but got married right in the middle of my treatments. It broke my heart but I didn't say anything. His marriage blew up and now he is in the process of getting over it. I still go to him for my teeth and he hugs me after every appointment. I finally asked him if there was any future in me hanging around waiting for him and he said I had better find someone else. What should I do?

MIXED UP

DEAR MIXED: You had better find yourself another molar mechanic . . . and take his advice . . . find another boyfriend.

DEAR ABBY: What is to be done about a man who will not do any repairing in his own home but will break his neck to help everyone else? He is always helping his brothers (and neighbors who mean nothing to us), but just let him need some help in putting up screens or painting the garage and they all disappear like we have the smallpox. Any suggestions you offer will be appreciated as the place is falling apart.

DISGUSTED WIFE

DEAR DISGUSTED: Give your husband fair warning. Tell him if he doesn't buckle down and keep his own home in good repair, you will call in professionals—and send him the bill.

CONFIDENTIAL TO C. C.: If she is "physically repulsive" to you, don't consider marrying her. She may have a beautiful mind, but you have to marry the whole girl.

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of this paper. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Guests In Lincoln

Two popular guests who have been spending several days in Lincoln are Mrs. Richard Duling and her daughter, Kathy, who have been guests at the home of Lt. Duling's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Duling.

Lt. Duling, who is serving with the navy and based at San Diego, Mrs. Duling and their daughter came east to spend the holidays with Mrs. Duling's parents in Omaha, and Lt. Duling's family in Lincoln. Immediately following the holidays Lt. Duling returned to San Diego, but Mrs. Duling and her daughter remained for a longer visit.

On Saturday Mrs. Duling, the former Sally Bartling, Delta Gamma at Nebraska and her daughter will go to Omaha where she will spend a few days with her parents before leaving for San Diego.

PTA To Hear Capt. Witt

The January meeting of District 126 PTA will be held at 8 o'clock Friday evening at the school. The program, "Doorway To Life", will include a safety film and talk by Capt. O. H. Witt of the Nebraska Safety Patrol.

La Sertoma Has Speaker

The members of La Sertoma met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. P. J. Plamondon. Following the business meeting, Mrs. Bertha Smith presented a talk on the United Nations, after which refreshments were served by the hostess.

Andrew Huber, all of Minneapolis; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Schmid of Omaha; Mr. and Mrs. James Carrier, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gammon, Mr. and Mrs. Atlee Stephan, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. William Collett.

UNDERSTAND that the Junior League Provisionals are busy planning a dinner dance which is to be held on Feb. 15 at the Lincoln Country Club. Only members of the Junior League, their husbands, and out of town guests are to be included in the list of diners and dancers.

ON THE calendar for Monday is a "coffee" meeting of the Lincoln Symphony Guild and their guests which will be held at 10 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Richard Binfield.

BRIDES

Announcing the members of her bridal party this morning is Miss Marlene Dee Morrow whose marriage to Richard Austin Remington will be an event of Sunday, Feb. 2. The ceremony will be solemnized at Our Redeemer Lutheran Church in North Platte.

Miss Carol Greeley of North Platte will be the maid of honor, and the bridesmaid will be Miss Marilyn Matson. Lighting the candles for the 4 o'clock ceremony will be Miss Sharon Bernasik of North Platte, and Miss Helen Walkington. Carol Matson will be the flower girl.

John Coover, Jr., will serve Mr. Remington as best man, and the corps of ushers will include Larry Connealy, James Pollard and Gene Spence.

On Tuesday, Jan. 14, the bride-elect was honored at a surprise party given by Miss Marilyn Matson and Miss Helen Walkington and held at their apartment. Eighteen guests were present for the dessert supper, and during the informal evening a personal shower was presented to the honoree.

A bride-elect of early February is Miss Barbara Wieck who has chosen Saturday, Feb. 1, as the date for her marriage to Orville Steven Himmelberg. For the ceremony, which will be solemnized at Sacred Heart Church, Miss Wieck has named Miss Norma Weber as her maid of honor and only attendant.

Serving Mr. Himmelberg as best man will be Gerald Himmelberg of Lawrence.

On Saturday, Jan. 18, the bride-to-be will be honored at a dessert luncheon and miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Cecilia Gass and her daughter, Miss Leila Gass, at their home in Hastings.

Mrs. Laura Hartman, her daughter, Mrs. Shirley Krause, and Mrs. Alice Simmons will entertain for Miss Wieck on Saturday, Jan. 25. During the informal afternoon, a kitchen shower will be presented to the honoree.

Turning to news of departures we want to say good-by this morning to Mr. and Mrs. George Edward and their daughter, Carol, who soon will be leaving their home at 2440 Kessler Blvd. The Edward family will motor to North Carolina where they will reside.

SOUTH HILLS

We'll turn our thoughts to birthdays for the moment and to a celebrant among the younger generation who is Miss Arlene Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Smith. The "big day" for Miss Smith's fifth anniversary was on Thursday but the party given in her honor will not take place until Saturday when all the kiddie clan will be on hand to help her celebrate. Mrs. Smith will be hostess at the morning event and guests arriving will be Beth Martin, Kathy Stewart, Laura Stutz, Arden Dodge, Tommy Brooks, Breck Minor, Bruce Shiel, David Stutz and C. T. Schisler.

On our list of out-of-town guests is a threesome visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Smith and their daughters, Arlene and Karen. Motoring to the suburb on Wednesday were Mrs. Smith's sisters, Mrs. Sherman Martin and her daughter, Beth, of Crowley, La., and Mrs. J. H. Patterson of Lufkin, Tex., who will be guests of the Smiths for about a week.

Hear that residents on Brower Road in South Hills welcomed new neighbors last week end who are Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Larson and their children, Lois, Paul and Ruth. The Larson family moved to Lincoln a year ago from Des Moines, Ia., and settled in their new home in the suburb last Saturday.

Mention of the Larsons reminds us that they had a recent visitor — Motoring from Des Moines, Ia., to assist with the many chores which face newcomers was Mrs. Larson's sister, Miss Elvia Werner.

Must take time now to catch up on the news concerning the bassinet set. One of the recent members in South Hills is Miss Jenelle Christine Dorman who was born on Monday, Dec. 23, in Providence Hospital. Jenelle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Dorman and her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Dorman and Mrs. Tilly Wanek of Wilber.

Sen. Jackson Says B-52 Production Will Halt By Early 1960

... To Fight For SAC Weapon

WASHINGTON (INS) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) said Thursday that under administration defense plans, production of H-bomb carrying B-52's will end in 1959 or early in 1960.

Jackson said he is "confident Congress will insist on putting some money into the new budget" proposed by President Eisenhower this week so that the output of heavy, long-range bombers can continue.

The bombers are the major weapon of the Strategic Air Command, the force which would strike back at an enemy in event of an attack.

Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, has told the Senate Preparedness subcommittee that there is no money in the new budget for B-52's.

Emergency

He said that neither are there funds for the bombers in the Emergency Defense Appropriations bill now under consideration.

He testified that production of the bomber is scheduled to be phased out. However, committee-men declined to reveal the date.

Jackson said that planes now being produced will be paid for out of money appropriated in previous years. He said that when those now on order come off the assembly line, production will stop. He said this will be in late 1959 or the first part of 1960.

The senator said that with those now on order, the Air Force will have a total of 603 B-52's. But he said their production should be continued because it will "be a long time" before the plane's successor is ready for production.

Witnesses in the Senate's missile investigation have emphasized repeatedly that it would be a mistake to discontinue conventional weapons until ballistic missiles are operational. Several have warned that estimates on the date the missiles will be ready for use are "over optimistic."

'Life Insurance'

Thomas G. Lanphier Jr., vice president of the Convair division of General Dynamics Corp., said that such conventional weapons as the B-52 provide "life insurance" until the space age weapons are ready.

White told the subcommittee that it would be a "very great expense" to let the production line on B-52's "go to pieces" and then have to start it up again.

Jackson indicated he plans to lead a fight to increase the new $39,700,000,000 defense budget so that it will contain funds for B-52 production beyond the present cut-off date.

White testified he wanted 500 million dollars for the planes in the new budget but was turned down on this. Senators quoted him as saying he made every plea he could. A committee member disclosed that in answer to a direct question, he said he had not appealed to President Eisenhower on the issue.

Mrs. William Folger was installed as president of Sarah D. Gillespie Tent 7, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, by Mrs. W. D. Way, past national president.

The Past Tent President's pin was presented to retiring president, Mrs. E. A. Hollingshead.

Evidence Of 65-Year-Old Trophy

Cadet Pat Kuncel (left) of Omaha holds an Army report stating that a trophy cup was won by the University of Nebraska drill team in 1892. The missing 65-year-old cup is the object of a search requested by Col. Frank Eager of Lincoln and Col. Vernon Rawie (right), professor of military science and tactics at NU.

NU SEEKS RETURN OF 1892 MILITARY DRILL TROPHY

A trophy cup won by a University of Nebraska military drill team in 1892 is the object of a widespread search.

Col. Frank Eager of Lincoln, a retired Army officer, is offering a $50 reward for the return of the sterling silver cup, about 18 to 24 inches high and valued at $300.

Both Col. Eager and the University Army ROTC Department are seeking its return because of the cup's historical value.

The cup along with $1,500 was won at the National Competitive Drill in Omaha by a company of University cadets who later started the National Honorary Society of Pershing Rifles.

Instructed By Pershing

The cadets were instructed by 2nd Lt. John J. Pershing, future commander of the American Expeditionary Forces in France during World War I.

Colonel Eager was then a sergeant and right guide for the crack unit.

Each year the cup was the object of competition among the companies of the Army cadet bat-

Science Plan 'Most Sensible' —U.S. Office

The U.S. Office of Education has congratulated the Nebraska Department of Education for "one of the most sensible pronouncements of science education" which has come to the attention of the Washington office.

"Your program in science education is in every way modern and forward looking," the science specialist of the U.S. Office told State Education Commissioner F. B. Decker.

The suggested program for Nebraska "is one which can be put into operation in practically every school district," the specialist said.

Dr. Decker said his department's plan, recommended ever since World War II, "outlines a program whereby science would be taught at every grade level in the elementary school, beginning with kindergarten."

City Asks Court Reverse Ruling In Obscenity Case

The City of Lincoln Thursday filed a brief with the State Supreme Court asking reversal of a Lancaster County District Court decision in the obscenity case against Oliver A. Pocras, operator of the Lincoln News Agency.

Lincoln also asks that the District Court be ordered to continue proceedings in the case against Pocras.

The news agency operator was convicted in Municipal Court of selling "obscene, lewd and indecent" publications in violation of a city ordinance and fined $50.

The case was appealed to District Court where Pocras won.

District Judge Harry A. Spencer ruled the ordinance unconstitutional stating it was "too vague and indefinite," and said Pocras' constitutional rights were violated.

The lower court also held that defining of the words "obscene, lewd and indecent" must be done legislatively.

In its brief to the Supreme Court, the City of Lincoln contends that courts, rather than legislative bodies, are the ones to construe obscenity laws.

China Prisoners' Moms Get Their Visits Extended

TOKYO (Friday) (INS)—The mothers of two Communist-imprisoned Americans were reported by radio Peiping Friday to have requested and received permission to extend their stay in Red China for another week.

A third mother, Mrs. Ruth Redmond of Yonkers, N.Y., bade a tearful farewell to her son, Hugh, in the Shanghai prison Thursday as she prepared to leave the Chinese Communist mainland this week end for her return to the United States.

Another Week
The Red Chinese radio broadcast, heard in Tokyo, said Mrs.

Mary V. Downey of New Britain, Conn., and Mrs. Jessie Fecteau of Lynn, Mass., who have been visiting their jailed sons in Peiping, had applied for and obtained visa extensions enabling them to stay another week.

The two women—whose sons, John Downey, 27, and Richard Fecteau, 30, are serving prison terms for alleged "espionage"—thereupon cancelled reservations for flights from Peiping Saturday, according to the Red broadcast which quoted Mrs. Fecteau as saying: "It's wonderful to be able to stay another week and have three more days to see my boy."

Since their arrival in Red China's capital city, Mrs. Downey and Mrs. Fecteau each have seen their sons four times—a visit every other day, Radio Peiping said.

Last Visit 'Difficult'
In Shanghai, meanwhile, Mrs. Redmond visited her 36-year-old son for the fourth and final time

Thursday. Interviewed by radio-telephone from Hong Kong, she described the two-and-a-half hour visit as "difficult."

She said she and her son talked only about "personal matters," and embraced sorrowfully as they parted.

Mrs. Redmond said she had not received any reply to her letter to Communist Premier Chou En-lai, begging for the release of her son.

NU Students To Publish New Literary Magazine In April

The first issue of a new undergraduate literary magazine—"Script"—will be published by University of Nebraska students about April 13.

Manuscript submission will begin Monday, it was announced at a meeting of interested persons Thursday afternoon at the Student Union.

Steve Schultz of Nevada, Ia., was named editor. Other magazine staff members will be Barbara Millnitz of Plainview and Jerry Petsche, of Lincoln manuscript editors; Jim Studnicka of Lincoln and Andy Backer of Scottsbluff, art editors; Jane Simmons of Mexico, Mo., and Ken Price of Lincoln business managers.

Robert Hough, assistant professor of English, will serve as advisor.

'Trial Balloon'
Schultz said the first issue will be something of a "trial balloon" to determine response, but it is hoped that the magazine will be published quarterly.

There has been a great deal of interest on campus in the publication of such a magazine, which will be open to any type of creative work by undergraduates, Schultz said.

It will not be a "humor" magazine, he explained, but will probably run art and cartoons, as well as poetry, short stories and essays.

The price of the magazine has not yet been determined, Schultz said.

A $500 gift from Mrs. Edwin Curtis of Minden, made last fall to the English Department, will be applied toward financing the magazine's start, Mrs. Curtis, a former Lincoln resident, was a Phi Beta Kappa in the University of Nebraska class of 1907.

There has not been a magazine

Woman Suffers Bruised Hip In 2-Car Auto Crash

Mrs. Darlene Gabriel, 21, of 1516 So. 22nd, suffered a bruised hip Thursday morning when the car in which she was riding was in collision with another at 22nd and Garfield, police reported.

Mrs. Gabriel was treated at a local hospital and released.

Police said she was a passenger in a car driven by Mrs. Beverly J. Schizas, 28, of 2432 A, when it was in collision with one driven by Earle E. McMunn, 52, of 2225 Summer. Mrs. Schizas was driving south on 22nd and McMunn was westbound on Garfield when the accident occurred, police said.

Rev. Philippi Takes Traffic Safety Post

The Rev. E. W. Philippi of Sheridan Lutheran Church Thursday was named Protestant representative to a traffic safety committee to be formed from Lincoln clergymen.

John T. Kenna of Chicago, director of the National Safety Council's safety activities division, presided over an organizational meeting of the committee in the City Council chambers.

He termed traffic accidents "one of America's great social problems" and declared that 90 per cent of them are "preventable."

Catholic and Jewish representatives to the committee, which will promote traffic safety education through the churches, will be named later.

Fourteen local pastors, Police Chief Joe Carroll, Mayor Bennett Martin and Lincoln-Lancaster Safety Council head Gifford Mullins attended the meeting.

Mullins declared that approaching traffic safety from the religious side will open up a broader opportunity for safety education in Lincoln.

He noted that Lincoln has made progress in traffic safety—traffic fatalities in Lincoln during 1957 numbered four compared with nine in 1956—but there is still much to be done.

LAFB Granted Authority For New Aero Club

Authority to organize and operate an Air Force Aero Club has been granted to Lincoln Air Force Base, according to Maj. Joe C. Williams, officer in charge of the program.

The LAFB Aero Club is a government-sponsored organization while the SAC Aero Club is chartered by the state of Nebraska, he pointed out.

Primary purpose of the new club is to provide personnel an opportunity to engage in flying as recreational activity. The club will encourage and develop skills in aeronautics, navigation, mechanics and related aeronautical sciences.

A new T-34 Beechcraft was presented to the base recently for use by the Club.

BAERING DOWN ON THE NEWS By Arthur 'Bugs' Baer

Thing they used to call diplomatic immunity is now a dead duck on Swan Lake.

It's one with the alteration of Nineveh and a change of Tyre. Envoys are no longer permitted monograms on their outboard laundry.

What's to prevent a hostile embassy from mouse-trapping its rat's nest? Does the lease say anything about aiming its pop-up toaster at a friendly suburb?

Poe wrote the "poisoned letter" with the purpose of showing how easy it was to get two tens for a five. Portfolios are as easy to decode as cackles in a crate.

Russia stops at nothing this side of the decimal point. England is as slippery as a slate roof. America also chucks a Machiavellian curve or two.

Plan To Keep Club In WL

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Details are being worked out on a plan to keep Western League baseball in Colorado Springs this summer, a reliable source reported Thursday night.

The source, who declined use of his name, said this is the plan:

A corporation will be formed to buy the Colorado Springs Baseball Club, Inc. Leaders in forming the new corporation are real estate dealers Wayne Roper and Jack Stanton.

Two of the nine directors of the club, Hugh Hill, president of the Hill Oil Co., and Dr. J. W. Lewis, have agreed to join with Roper and Stanton in the new enterprise.

Directors of the club agreed Thursday to recommend to the present stockholders—about 350 of them—that they accept the proposal. A two-thirds vote of the stockholders is necessary to approve the proposition.

How much stockholders will receive was not immediately known.

A recent drive for public subscriptions to keep alive the Colorado Springs club failed. At least $25,000 is needed, club officials said, to assure a baseball team this summer. The fund raising drive produced only pledges for $6,500.

Roper and William Kice, president of the Colorado Springs club, are expected to attend a meeting of the Class A League in Lincoln, Neb., Sunday.

Roper and Stanton were not available for comment.

Little Mo To Get $110,700 Damages

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—An attorney said Thursday that payment of $110,700 to Maureen Connolly Brinker would end litigation over injuries she alleged ruined her tennis playing career.

Leland Neilson, attorney for the Pre-Mixed Concrete Co., defendant in the suit, said the check for the amount would be paid Mrs. Brinker, 23, today.

It follows a state supreme court decision upholding a superior court jury's award of Oct. 25, 1955, of $95,000 damages. The balance of the $110,700 represents interest and court costs, the attorney said.

Mrs. Brinker sued the company for injuries she received when the frightened horse she was riding brushed her against a concrete truck, July 20, 1954. She then held most of the world's top tennis crowns. She married Norman Brinker the year following the accident and is now the mother of a girl.

POINT BLANK

By Don Bryant
Sports Editor, The Star

Fate is often cruel to the beloved figures in the world of sports.

Yet it can be just as kind to others. There seems to be no set formula.

The latest figure to suffer destitution is Jimmy Foxx, one of the all-time great sluggers for the Philadelphia Athletics and the Boston Red Sox.

Old Double X has been discovered penniless in Miami, unable to pay his rent and facing eviction.

Foxx estimates he earned some $250,000 during his career, but in 1958 he's on the rocks. By his own admission he "blew" most of the money.

News of Jimmy's troubles recalled the 1955 appearance of the Nebraska Cornhuskers in the Orange Bowl.

A few days prior to the game, I met Foxx in a Miami cabaret. He gave no hint of being on the verge of financial ruin. At that time he was associated with Johnny Jones Meats, a Coral Gables, Fla., business. Jimmy was working as a salesman and public relations representative.

With a firm handshake, he joined our group and enjoyed an old-fashioned hot stove session.

Foxx was particularly enthused over the prospects of entering into the field of Little League baseball. Whether he ever did, I don't know.

The Foxx case has parallels in sports, to be sure. Most famous, perhaps, is the plight of Joe Louis, former heavyweight boxing king who made a fortune in the ring and has had to devote the later years of his life to paying off the federal government.

Lady Luck weaves her magic in different ways. Some stars wind up broke, while others like Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Barney Ross have to battle illness.

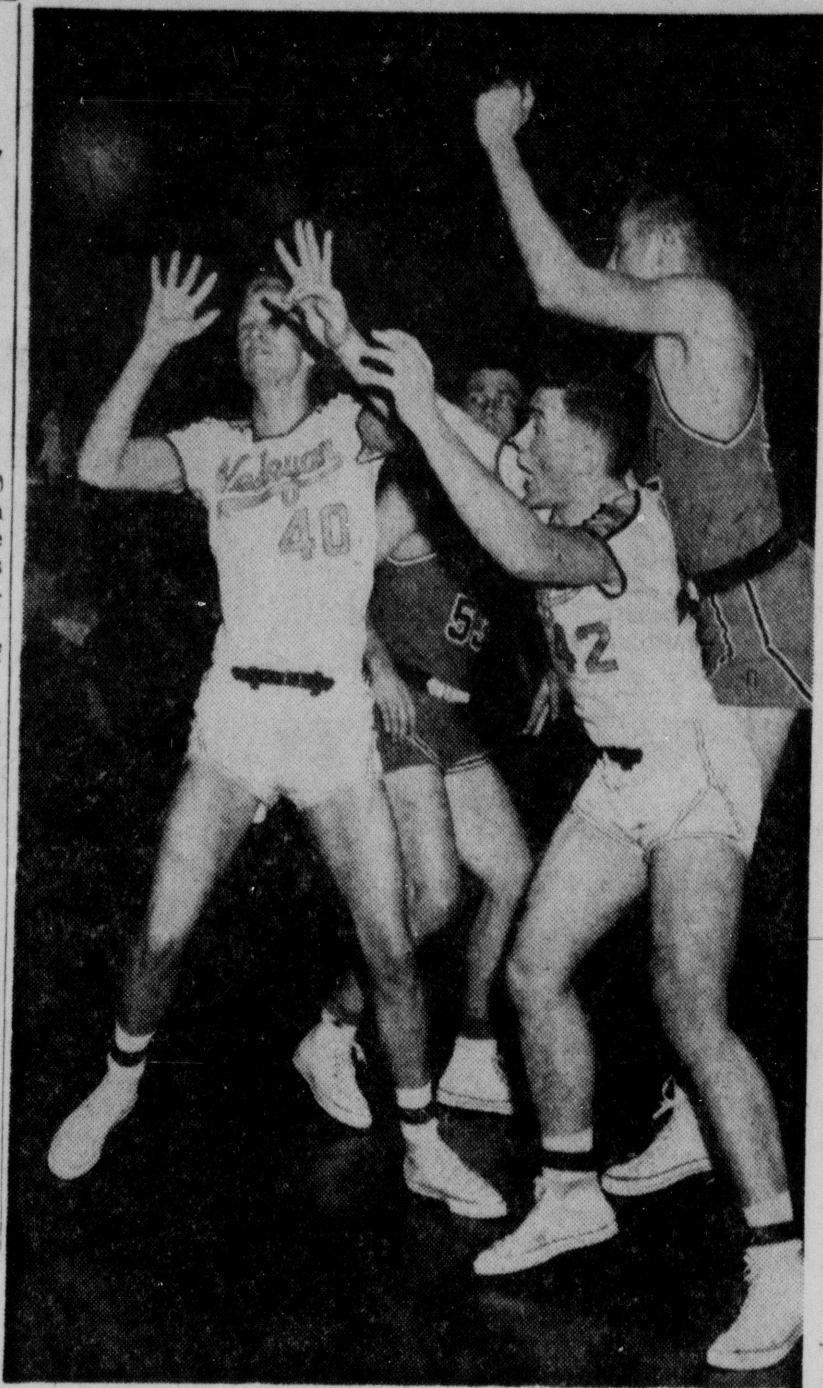

On the other side of the ledger are the Stan Musials, Ted Williams, Jack Dempseys, Gene Tunneys and Dizzy Deans who, through fame and wise management, find themselves on easy street.

There is always one thing the great athlete who is down on his luck can look forward to, though.

Whatever his plight, the public—fans who thrilled to his exploits when his world was right-side-up—always rallies to his aid. Sympathy seems to generate quickly when the word spreads that a respected fellow is in a jam.

No sooner was the word about Foxx made public than he received a check for $400. There will be more money, of course. And many folks will help him find a spot from which to make a comeback.

Genial Jimmy will no doubt find that he hasn't been forgotten. At least I hope so.

It's mine! So say Wesleyan's Rodger Felix (40) and Bob Eberspacher (42). Argument comes from Doane's Jim Bruning (right).

Ex-Vol May Be NU Aide

... Jennings Interviews John Gordy

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star

Nebraska football coach Bill Jennings conferred Thursday afternoon and evening with a possible new assistant Cornhusker football coach.

He's John Gordy, 24-year-old line star from the University of Tennessee who played with the National Football League champion Detroit Lions last fall.

Gordy arrived in Lincoln Thursday afternoon. He had dinner with Jennings and Athletic Director Bill Orwig Thursday night.

Further conferences are scheduled for Friday. "We haven't settled anything," Jennings told The Star Thursday. "We've just been talking about possibilities, and we'll meet again in the morning (Friday)."

Jennings said Gordy had not been offered a job on the Nebraska staff, but that the matter had "only been discussed."

The Husker coach said he would confer with Chancellor Clifford Hardin before announcing any decision on hiring another assistant.

Orwig said "nothing was definite" and that Gordy was "visiting with Bill (Jennings)" about the post on the NU staff.

"I met John today," Orwig said. "But nothing definite has been settled."

"The decision rests with Jennings. He has a free hand in picking his assistants."

Jennings said "we haven't crossed that bridge yet," when asked if Gordy would be a varsity or freshman coach.

Recently the Regents approved a plan to hire two more assistants—one to replace Jack Landry, who resigned, on the varsity staff and one to coach the frosh.

The plan calls for two fulltime freshman coaches, and it's believed Warren Schmaeckel, present staff member, will be one of the frosh mentors.

LeRoy Pearce, former Iowa State aide, arrived in Lincoln Thursday to begin his duties as varsity assistant, leaving one opening on the Husker staff.

Jennings conferred with Bowden Wyatt, Tennessee Coach, prior to inviting Gordy to Lincoln. Pearce, who assisted Wyatt before joining Jim Myers' Iowa staff, also coached Gordy when the latter was at Tennessee.

Gordy captained the Vols in 1956 and became an offensive standout with the Lions in his NFL rookie year.

Stoehr Buckets 20 In 2nd Half Burst

By BOB MCCOY
Star Sports Staff Writer

Rangy Rudy Stoehr and Mel Sheary sparked a second half explosion at Taylor Gym Thursday night to lead the Nebraska Wesleyan Plainsmen past Doane 66-60 in a Nebraska College Conference tussle.

The victory for the Plainsmen was their third in a row in NCC play, and boosted their loop mark to 3-1.

After a see-saw first half, which saw Wesleyan take a short 26-25 lead, the Plainsmen threw in 40 points to tame the Tigers. Stoehr, held to a lone tip-in in the first half, collected 20 after the intermission and Sheary sparked the floor play.

Wesleyan jumped off to a quick 9-2 lead as the contest opened as Lefty Hixson and Dick Evenson each hit a pair of long jump shots, but Doane came back to take the lead at 12-11 with seven minutes gone.

The lead changed hands eight times and the score was tied on five other occasions before Rod Felix hit on a rebound shot with nine seconds left to send the Plainsmen into a 26-25 halftime margin.

Doane went back ahead as the second half opened on a charity toss by workhorse Ron Gray and a bucket by Verna Swanson, but Stoehr got a fielder to tie the count and Arvid Barney sent the Plainsmen ahead for good with 16:46 left with a basket and a free shot.

Wesleyan then built up its biggest lead at 51-37 halfway to the end, Sheary spearheaded the Plainsmen fast break to account for most of the points.

Then Stoehr took almost complete command of the Wesleyan scoring and dropped in 13 points, seven on free throws, to hold the lead as Doane crept back up to within six points.

Stoehr's 22 points far and away paced the individual efforts in the contest. Hixson chipped in 13 and Evenson and Sheary each added nine for the Plainsmen.

Noyes Rivers, 6-5 freshman center for the Tigers, led the Doane scoring with 13 although he didn't see action in the first half. Gray, Jim Bruning and Max Horst each added 11.

The Doane loss dropped the Tiger mark to 2-4 in NCC play. Wesleyan, now 6-5 for the season, gets into action again Saturday night at Concordia in a league game.

The Plainsmen reserves made it two wins for the night by nipping the Doane second-stringers, 79-73, in preliminary action, Dennis Semin, ex-Utica prep flash, led Wesleyan with 18 points while Tiger freshman

Whitehurst Is Johnson's TV Foe Tonight

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—A ring veteran who once was floored by an orange takes on a spoiler tonight in a 10-round boxing bout that will get the usual Friday night radio-television treatment.

Harold Johnson, 29, of Manayunk, Pa., is scheduled to slug it out with Bert Whitehurst, 26, of Baltimore, in a rematch of a previous heavyweight meeting in which Johnson was declared the winner on a split decision.

Johnson was the star of a televised fight two years ago in which he failed to answer the bell for the third round. He insisted an orange he had eaten was doped. In a subsequent investigation by the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission, Johnson was cleared of complicity.

Aside from the citrus episode, Johnson has compiled 56 victories in 64 fights over an 11-year period. He has scored 25 knockouts and claims light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore as one of his victims.

In a championship bout with Moore two years ago, the classic-styled Johnson was piling up points for the first 14 rounds before Moore dropped the curtain to keep his crown. Johnson, however, is still the leading contender for Moore's crown.

The fight will be televised and broadcast (NBC TV, Radio, 9 p.m. CST.) It will be scored by individual rounds with a point system employed to avert a possible draw.

New Coach Starts To Work

LeRoy Pearce (right), new member of the University of Nebraska football coaching staff, arrived Thursday and went right to work with Head Coach Bill Jennings. Pearce, 30, said he delayed his decision to come to Nebraska until Jim Myers, Iowa State head coach, decided between his present post and the Texas A&M job. "I was a candidate for the Iowa State job if Myers left," Pearce said, "and I knew I was either coming to Nebraska or staying at Iowa State as head coach." (Star Photo.)

NE-Links Renew Warfare Tonight

GAMES TONIGHT
Lincoln High at Northeast (PSA), 8 p.m.
Blair at University High, 8 p.m.
Southeast at Holdrege
Plus X at Omaha Cathedral
SATURDAY NIGHT
Plus X at Grand Island Catholic

By BOB MCCOY

The season's second Capital City prep blue plate special—the Lincoln High-Lincoln Northeast intracity cage battle—headlines a spicy local slate for tonight which includes four games.

Aside from the Link-Rocket tussle, University High hosts Blair and Southeast is at Holdrege. Plus X travels to Omaha Cathedral tonight and then visits Grand Island Catholic Saturday.

Northeast, the top rated Class AA club in the state, will be bidding for victory number seven and a clean sweep in this year's series with the Links.

The Rockets, only undefeated AA team in Nebraska, won this season's first meeting 49-31 last December. And with high-scoring Jan Wall, Jim Munford and Rich Smith leading the way coach Ed Johnson's crew could easily make it two in a row.

Coach Lyle Weyand's Links will once again be minus 6-5 center Don Burt, who is still recovering from an operation, but are expected to counter with Paul Ude, Neil Unterseher and Joe Moore.

Lincoln High, which beat the Rockets in both meetings last year, is 4-1 for the season. Game time is set for 8 p.m. at the PSA Building.

Southeast gets a taste of rugged Class A competition when it visits Holdrege tonight. The Dusters boast a 6-1 record and high-scoring Jim Hoge, a former Capital City cager at University High.

Southeast is 3-3 for the season and will be trying to get back over the .500 mark. The Knights are rated 10th in AA and Holdrege is third in Class A.

University High, which scored two victories last week playing a slowed-up game, should make it three in a row against winless Blair.

The Tutors used good shooting and the floor play of Bruce Weeks to whip Columbus St. Bonaventure and Wahloo last week.

Plus X will be a big favorite against Omaha Cathedral tonight and Grand Island Catholic Saturday.

The Thunderbolts are 3-1 after suffering their first defeat, 53-43, to Boys Town a week ago.

Matchmaker Says D'Amato Must Hurry

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Los Angeles matchmaker George Parnassus Thursday said Cus D'Amato, manager of heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, has until today to decide on a $200,000 offer for a Patterson-Zora Folley fight.

Parnassus offered Patterson a $200,000 guarantee last Saturday for a title bout in Los Angeles against Folley, the No. 2 contender from Chandler, Ariz.

The matchmaker said, "I've waited as long as I intend to for a reply from D'Amato. He has 24 hours to make a plain yes or no answer."

"I talked to Sid Flaherty, (manager of No. 1 contender Eddie Machen) over the weekend on the possibility of a Folley-Machen elimination 12-round in Los Angeles," Parnassus said. "Flaherty said he definitely was interested in fighting Folley, but preferred a San Francisco site."

Parnassus said he was acting in association with Mr. and Mrs. Cal Eaton, Los Angeles promoters, in offering the guarantee to Patterson. The matchmaker was in Phoenix to discuss the idea with Folley's manager, Bill Swift.

Cactus Jack Given Five-Year Contract

... Signing No Surprise

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Cactus Jack Curtice, coach of the University of Utah football teams the past eight years, Thursday was named head coach at Stanford.

The announcement by Stanford President Dr. J. E. Wallace Sterling came as an anti-climax. Three hours earlier Curtice resigned as coach and athletic director at Utah to accept the Pacific Coast Conference school's bid.

About the only surprise was the length of the appointment—five years. It had been reported earlier that Curtice would come to Stanford on a three-year basis.

Salary wasn't divulged but reliable sources in Salt Lake City said Curtice will receive $19,000 annually—$17,000 of it on his coaching agreement and $2,000 for leadership at a summer boys' camp. Speculation had centered on a $15,000 annual figure.

son and was named assistant athletic director at Stanford.

Resignation of Curtice left open the Utah job. He reportedly received $14,000 a year there with a $5,000 television contract.

There was speculation that Curtice also would be able to augment his salary at Stanford.

Curtice, who comes here on March 1, made no announcement on his possible assistants. He said in Salt Lake City he would have plenty of time since the Indians don't start spring training until May.

"We welcome Jack Curtice to Stanford," President Sterling said after the board of trustees approved the appointment Thursday afternoon.

"We have chosen him because he coaches the sort of imaginative football we like and because we are confident that he believes in and teaches the ideals we have always sought to embody in Stanford's athletic program."

Curtice, 50, becomes the sixth coach in Stanford's 34 years of football. In sequence, the others were Pop Warner, 1924-1932; Tiny Thornhill, 1933-39; Clark Shaughnessy, 1940-41; Marchie Schwartz, 1942 and 1946-50; and Taylor, 1951-57.

Curtice teaches the T formation with emphasis on passing. His Utah team this past fall was the No. 1 passing team in the nation.

Under Taylor, Stanford also put the accent on the aerial game.

"We feel that Coach Curtice is proficient in teaching interesting and enjoyable football for both players and spectators," Taylor commented.

The boys who will play for Curtice were unanimous in acclaiming his appointment. Typical was the comment of the probable choice for quarterback, Bob Nicolet Jr.:

"I was happy about it when he was even mentioned as a possibility. He's done a fine job at the University of Utah. With the material we have, particularly in ends like Joel Freis, Chris Burford and Ben Robinson and his concentration on a passing attack, I think we should have a good season."

Curtice

Stanford officials first said they would like a graduate of the school to succeed Taylor, an All-America guard for the Indians in 1942.

However, the name of Curtice popped up in December and there hasn't been much mentioned of anyone else since. On Dec. 28 his underdog West squad, which trained at Stanford, whipped the East 27-13 in the Shrine charity game.

Curtice's Utah squad of last season gained him the most note of any in his career which dates back to 1938. His Utes won the Skyline Conference title for the fourth time since Curtice went there in 1950. They gained 1,952 yards passing while doing it.

A native of Glasgow, Ky., "Curtice threw 23 touchdown passes when he played at little Transylvania College of Lexington, Ky. He earned a master's degree in physical education at Columbia and started coaching in 1938 at West Texas State.

He switched to Texas Western and after eight years, he succeeded like Armstrong at Utah when Armstrong resigned after 25 years to take the athletic directorship at Minnesota.

City Service Groups Challenged

... Executive Club To Sponsor Midget Gridders

The Executive Club of Lincoln, the city's newest service club, has challenged other Capital City service organizations to sponsor midget football teams next year.

The Executive Club has decided to sponsor a club itself, thus bringing the number of teams in the city to five. The club's challenge points out that this is little better than four, and that Lincoln needs a minimum of eight.

C. F. Parker, club president, lists in the challenge the sponsorship of youth activities aimed at the prevention of juvenile delinquency as a primary purpose of the new group.

The challenge continues:

"Last year 132 of our boys used up their excess energy while they learned sportsmanship and team-play in the Junior Chamber of Commerce midget football program. While they played football, hundreds of other boys who tried out for a team and were not chosen, sought 'other avenues' for their time and energy. Those 'other avenues' unfortunately became one way streets to the police department for many of them. Did you know that during 1957 1083 Lincoln boys had to answer to the police department for their activities. Did you know that 15 of those boys were committed to state institutions.

"Due entirely to lack of sponsors, we had only four midget football teams in Lincoln in 1957. Over 100 boys tried out for one midget team which meant 33 were chosen and over 70 turned away. Our boy-population would support many more teams if only sponsors could be found.

"We investigated and found that it will cost $1283.00 to sponsor a team and outfit 33 boys with new equipment. After the first year, the cost is approximately $530.00 per year. There are plenty of men willing to donate their time as coaches.

"The Executive Club has voted to sponsor one midget football team this year. This will make a 5 team league which is not much better than 4. Lincoln needs a minimum of 8 teams. If your club and other service clubs in Lincoln will sponsor or find sponsors for 3 more, we will have 8—a 100% increase over 1957. If the Service Clubs are not willing to support this program who is going to do it?"

The Executive Club of Lincoln therefore challenges the other Service Clubs to sponsor or to find sponsors for at least three more teams to meet our team on the gridiron in September."

NU Cagers Ready For Iowa State

Iowa State comes to Lincoln for a Big Eight basketball game Saturday night. The Cyclones hold one decision over the Cornhuskers this season, 61 to 51. This was scored in the pre-season Big Eight Tournament at Kansas City.

Since Coach Jerry Bush took over in 1954-'55 the Huskers have found tough sledding against the Cyclones, winning but two of the seven contests. One loss was in overtime.

However, the Huskers hold a 38-31 edge over Iowa State in all games played since the Big Six Conference was formed in 1927-'28. Last season's skirmish with Iowa State was an upset with Rex Ekwall leading the Huskers to a victory over the nationally ranked Cyclones who were bolstered by All-American Gary Thompson.

Ekwall popped in 19 points to lead the scoring. Nebraska blew a 15-point lead at one time but settled back and won going away at 67-58.

Ekwall has graduated but two of the Cyclones top point manufacturers. They are back in Lyle Frahm with 12 and John Crawford with 17.

Bennet Gets By Cortland In MUDECAS

Lincoln Star Special
BEATRICE—A last-second bucket by Don Ehlers boosted Bennet to a 46-45 victory over Cortland in the feature game of the Class A and B semifinals of the MUDECAS basketball tournament here Thursday night.

In the other Class B semifinal, Firth disposed of Lewiston 49-37 while Clatonia ripped Hickman 61-43 and Sprague-Martell downed Brock 66-40.

Cortland, with a 45-44 lead, had a chance for some insurance points with six seconds left but Jim Egner, who had already tossed in 25 markers, missed two foul shots and Ehlers cut loose with his game-winning basket.

Firth built up a 23-11 halftime bulge over Lewiston and maintained the margin through the second half to win easily as Dale Verhoff poured in 20 points.

Rodney Sagehorn sparked Clatonia to its tenth consecutive victory of the season with 22 points. Clatonia led 31-18 at halftime and were never in serious trouble after that point. Ron Huenink hit 16 points for Hickman.

Darrell Mitchell teamed up with Ron Nannen to pace the Sprague-Martell victory over Brock. Mitchell ripped the cords for 26 points while Nannen dropped in 25. Usually high-scoring Bill Bohlen of Brock was held to only 13 points. Clatonia will bid for the Class A championship and a repeat of an earlier 69-58 victory over Sprague-Martell tonight at 9 p.m. while Firth and Bennet vie for the Class B title at 7:30 p.m.

The Coliseum pool will be the scene of a dual meet with Kansas State at 2 p.m. Saturday, and a triangular gymnastics meet with Colorado State U and K-State is set for the same time.

North Platte, Scottsbluff Highlights Big 10 Slate

North Platte and Scottsbluff clash tonight in the top game of a Big 10 Conference schedule headlining this weekend's prep basketball activity.

The game, at North Platte, will break a deadlock in the West Big 10, since each team currently holds a 2-0 record in loop play.

Other Western division games are McCook at Kearney tonight and Scottsbluff at McCook on Saturday. In the East division, Hastings and Norfolk, both undefeated in the loop, meet at Norfolk tonight, while Fremont is at Columbus. On Saturday, Hastings entertains Columbus.

Class A has some outstanding games tonight, with the Omaha Westside venture in York matching the two top-rated clubs.

Cozad has a pair of toughies at home, meeting Lexington tonight and undefeated Gering on Saturday. Lexington is at Curtis Saturday, while Plattsmouth at Crete, Fairbury at Falls City, and Gering at Ogallala (also unbeaten) are slated tonight.

Lincoln and Omaha schools have light, but interesting schedules. The big game in Lincoln tonight sends Lincoln Northeast, the state's No 1 team, against Lincoln

Aggies Start New Search

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—The badly-battered campaign of Texas A&M officials to enlist a new football coach for the sprawling military school was being re-organized Thursday on a "chain of command" basis.

Until the faculty athletic council—now charged with the preliminary selection—has a chance to revamp the riddled list of possible candidates, there will be no steps taken to start interviewing the most likely prospects, Chairman Chris Groneman said.

The council met for two hours Thursday afternoon. Afterward Groneman said the council looked over its list of likely candidates and had also received several new applications. He declined to release any names.

The campaign, which to date has resulted only in a series of routs and a break in ranks among former Aggies over the state, exploded Wednesday when W. T. Doherty of Houston, chairman of the college board of directors, abolished the board's athletic committee.

Prospective candidates and alumni have charged that one of the reasons the search has ended in a fiasco has been because both the board's athletic committee and the faculty athletic council have been screening candidates.

The abolishment of the board's committee now puts the responsibility of the primary selection on the faculty council. Their recommendation will go to Dr. M. T. Harrington, college president, and then to the college board of directors for final approval.

Doherty has called a meeting of the board of directors of the college at 10 a.m. next Wednesday here "To discuss the athletic program of A&M College and all matters pertaining thereto." There was no immediate elaboration of the statement.

Most mentioned currently by Texas sports writers as possible candidates are Jim Owens of Washington, Bill Yeoman, first assistant coach at Michigan State, and Siki Sikes of East Texas State.

The USLTA—holding its annual meeting here—has never allowed expenses to players in the Nation.

USLTA May Pay Tennis Expenses

ST PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—A committee recommended Thursday that few top United States tennis players be allowed expenses while competing in the National Championships at Forest Hills, N.Y.

Chairman W. H. Woods of New York said he will place the recommendation before the U. S. Lawn Tennis Ass'n's executive committee today.

The USLTA—holding its annual meeting here—has never allowed expenses to players in the Nation.

Basilio-Robinson Set The 'Big' Title Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—Middleweight champion Carmen Basilio and unpredictable Ray Robinson, the four-time kingly Thursday were rematched for a title bout called by the International Boxing Club the "big one we needed to keep boxing alive."

The scheduled 15-rounder was booked for March 25 in Chicago Stadium. The bout will be closed to home television but will be shown on theatre-TV. The Chicago area, however, will be blacked out.

Folley Passes Up Bout With Bethea

PHOENIX, Ariz. (INS)—Second-ranked heavyweight contender Zora Folley of Chandler, Ariz., is passing up an offer to replace Bob Satterfield as Wayne Bethea's opponent in a nationally televised bout at Chicago Jan. 29.

Folley's co-manager, Bill Swift, said in Phoenix he received two calls about the fight but refused, explaining:

"Zora has beaten Bethea twice already...there wouldn't be much point in fighting him again."

Satterfield announced his retirement from the ring because of an eye injury.

Jim Norris, president of the IBC who made the announcement in New York, said that no return-out agreements were in the fighters' contracts. The official signings will take place Jan. 23 in Chicago.

Norris also said that both Robinson and Basilio would receive 30 percent of the gross receipts, including television and radio and that the rematch would be scaled to reach $600,000 with a $40 top.

Basilio, the bruising belter from Chittenango, N.Y., dethroned Robinson last Sept. 23 in Yankee Stadium in a hard-fought 15-rounder.

The battle-scarred former union farmer, who subsequently vacated his welterweight crown, won a split decision as Robinson only gained the nod of referee Al Berl.

"We were guaranteed $275,000 from theater-TV," he said. "And we expect it to go much higher than that. We considered the fact that there are more theaters in the New York area to show the fight than in Chicago."

Senor Al Lopez Predicts Flag For Sox

CHICAGO (AP) — Al Lopez, the American League's perennial pennant "bridesmaid," predicted Thursday his Chicago White Sox will dethrone the New York Yankees this season.

At a press party which completely ignored the Comiskey family squabble over club stock, manager Lopez asserted that two big December deals jelled the Sox into a championship team.

He referred to the swaps which brought outfielder Al Smith and pitcher Early Wynn from the Cleveland Indians and whose Cleveland Indians were runner-up five or six previous seasons.

"I think we have the best pitching staff in the American League now," added Lopez.

The Sox pilot, however, declined to name a potential starting lineup and said competition among several candidates will settle the issue at third base, first base and center field.

Master of ceremony at the affair was co-vice president Charles Comiskey, who is embroiled in a legal quarrel with his sister, Dorothy Comiskey Rigney, over inherited stock in the estate of their mother, the late Mrs. Grace Comiskey, former club president.

Seated at the same speaker's table was John Rigney, Dorothy's husband and the club's other vice president. Also at the party was Roy Egan, Sox counsel and a club director with Chuck and Dorothy. Egan especially is a target of Comiskey's court attack.

Lopez bore the brunt of the questioning, although Smith and Wynn, both at the speaker's table, said they were happy to be with their former Tribe manager.

Lopez declined to guess whether the Yankees would be improved next season.

"I don't know about some of their young players," he said. "But they were ready to be taken last year. We didn't do it because they (the Yankees) beat us soundly in crucial series when it could have meant a chance for us to move into a decisive lead."

Lopez said he now has six potential pitching starters, including Billy Pierce, Dick Donovan, Wynn, Bob Keegan, Jim Wilson and Bill Fischer with Moore and Gerry Staley as first-line relievers.

He said Wynn was a potential

15 to 20 game winner, despite his age of 37, and that Smith, chagrined into a .247 batting average because he had to alternate between the outfield and third base at Cleveland, would do much better as an exclusive Sox left fielder.

Newly-acquired Goodman, Lopez said, would be a competent third baseman, freeing Bubba Phillips for center field where fleet, but light-hitting Jim Landis will be given first try.

Generally speaking, Lopez continued, he had maneuverability in material with the versatile Goodman, Phillips, Francona who can play outfield with the versatile Goodman, Phillips, Francona who can play outfield or first base, and a bevy of first base candidates.

Earl Torgeson, Ron Jackson and Walt Dropo are holdover first base candidates and Jim Rivera can play center instead of right field, where Francona also can operate.

Sox fixtures are Luis Aparicio at shortstop, Nellie Fox at second and Sherm Lollar catching.

Robertson, Cincinnati, Top Scoring

NEW YORK (AP) — The University of Cincinnati, led by sophomore star Oscar Robertson, is leading the nation's major college basketball teams in scoring with an average of 86.8 points per game.

The NCAA Service Bureau reported Thursday fifth-ranked Cincinnati with an 11-2 record has tallied 1,128 points. Marshall, with a 7-4 record, is second, having scored 953 points for an average of 86.6.

Robertson, who has averaged 43 points in his last three games, moved into the top individual scoring spot over Wilt Chamberlain of Kansas. Robertson has scored 425 points in 13 games for an average of 32.7, while Chamberlain, who missed two of his last three games because of an injury, has 354 points in 11 contests for a 32.2 average. The individual scoring was for games through Jan. 14.

In team defense, San Francisco shows the best record, having allowed 640 points or an average of 49.2 in 13 games. Oklahoma State in 12 games allowed 594 points, an average of 49.5.

Feldman Quits ISC For Oklahoma Job

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Rudy Feldman, a line coach at Iowa State College, announced Thursday he has accepted appointment as an assistant to coach Bud Wilkinson at the University of Oklahoma.

Feldman, who coached centers and guards, became the second assistant to leave the staff of Cyclone coach Jim Myers this week.

Assistant coach LeRoy Pearce announced Monday he had been appointed No. 1 assistant coach to Bill Jennings at the University of Nebraska.

Last week, when Myers was the top prospect for the coaching vacancy at Texas A&M, he said he would take four assistants with him, including Pearce and Feldman. Myers Monday withdrew from consideration for the Aggie vacancy.

Lexington Grid Aces To Attend Nebraska

The University of Nebraska has snapped up three of the players who helped Lexington High School's football team to a brilliant 1957 season. Head Coach Bill Jennings said Thursday.

The three are Mickey Tinglehoff, a star center; Dallas Dyer, top-flight fullback, and Steve Smith, a quarterback. Tinglehoff weighs 190, Dyer 175 and Smith 185.

Double Fatality Cancels Nebraskan's Wedding Plans

Virginia Crash Fatal For Pair

TRIANGLE, Va. (AP) — Betty Lou Ziola arrived here after a transcontinental trip from Alhambra, Calif., to make plans for her wedding this weekend to Robert J. Davenport, Betty, 20, a native of Grand Island, Neb., was met at the bus stop in this northern Virginia town by Robert, 20, Burwell, Neb., hospitalman at the Quantico Marine base.

Marine authorities said Betty had been working in Alhambra.

Betty got into Robert's car and had driven less than 100 feet to an intersection at the Marine base when their car and a tractor trailer collided. Robert died instantly, Betty 45 minutes later in the hospital where he had worked. The truck driver, Claude Maxwell of Miami, Fla., escaped serious injury.

The car careened 152 feet and came to rest at the foot of an Iwo Jima memorial marker.

Robert Davenport was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Davenport, who farm near Burwell. The youth was graduated from Burwell High School.

Cattle, Calves On Feed Down 3% In Nation

... Same For State

WASHINGTON (AP) — There were three per cent less cattle and calves on feed for quality slaughter market on Jan. 1 than a year earlier, the Agriculture Department said.

Nebraska was down three per cent, same as the average for the nation, the department reported.

The national figure on feed was estimated at 5,867,000 head. Although down from the start of 1957 the number was six per cent over the average of 1952-56.

An increase of 1 per cent was reported for the midwestern corn belt with its 4,399,000 head, but the 13 western feeding states, with 1,390,000 on feed, showed a decline of 13 per cent.

The Agriculture Department said the general decline reflected the fact that the cattle industry is in the midst of a period of growth when large numbers of cows are held back for breeding purposes.

Iowa, the leading state, was up 2 per cent from a year ago.

York To Host State Home Extension Meet

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (AP) — The State Council of Nebraska Home Extension Clubs meeting in Grand Island Wednesday and Thursday has assigned its state meeting for 1958 to York.

The meeting will be held Sept. 16, 17, and 18.

More Snow Due Over Nation

Snow is expected Friday throughout the Great Lakes region, most of New England, the upper half of the Appalachians and in parts of the upper Mississippi Valley. Snow or rain, depending on local elevations, are expected over the northern Rockies with rain along the Pacific coast. It will be colder in New England, north Pacific area and parts of Lakes area; warmer in parts of northern Plains and the Southeast. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Merriman Named Dean At Wayne

WAYNE, Neb. — Dr. Donald G. Merriman, 44, of Baltimore, Md., has been named dean of students at Wayne State Teachers College to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Dr. Milton Hassel in November. President W. A. Brandenburg announced.

The appointment is subject to the approval of the Board of Education for State Normal Schools at the next board meeting.

Dr. Merriman, who will assume his duties at Wayne State Feb. 10, received his bachelor's and masters degrees from Colorado State College of Education, Greeley, and a doctorate from Columbia University in New York.

Dr. Merriman has a wide background of experience in guidance, mental health, marriage and family life counseling, and student personnel administration. He comes to Wayne from Maryland, where he has been senior marriage counselor for the Children's Aid and Family Agency of Baltimore County.

Colorado Man Fatally Hurt Near Kimball

KIMBALL, Neb. (AP) — Carl Drake, 69, of Julesburg, Colo., was killed in a head-on collision on Highway 30 about 7½ miles east of Kimball, the State Safety Patrol reported.

The patrol said the other car involved was driven by Roger Riggs, 20, of San Diego, Calif.

This was the 9th highway fatality in Nebraska this year compared with five at this time in 1957.

Both drivers were alone in their cars, Drake headed east and Riggs west.

Safety Patrolman John Oliver said Riggs told authorities Drake's car appeared to have passed another vehicle but failed to return to its proper lane. He said he slowed his vehicle to a crawl to avoid a crash. His car was pushed backward 87 feet. Riggs suffered only facial scratches.

Soil Bank Discussion Slated At Wheat Meet

OGALLALA, Neb. (AP) — The Nebraska Wheat Growers Assn. will hear a discussion of the soil bank at a meeting scheduled Monday, Jan. 20.

Carpenter Asked To Speak At G.I.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (AP) — State Sen. Terry Carpenter will discuss taxes and school support at an open meeting in Grand Island Monday night.

Sponsors of the talk, a Dodge elementary school group, quoted Carpenter in accepting the speech date as saying "I am more than glad to try to help what I think is a bad situation."

A question and answer period is scheduled to follow the senator's speech at the Dodge school.

To Speak At Norfolk

SEWARD, Neb. — Prof. Walter A. Juergensen of Concordia College, Seward, will speak at the Parent-Teacher League meeting at Christ Lutheran School, at Norfolk, Feb. 3. His topic will be "We are Always Teaching."

Dick Resigns School Position At Loomis

LOOMIS, Neb. (AP) — Abe Dick, superintendent of the Loomis public schools, has announced his resignation, effective at the end of the school year.

Dick, now in his third year at Loomis, said a physician had advised the family to move to a higher altitude to relieve allergies suffered by his children. He is considering Arizona or Colorado. Dick is a native of York.

Sidney Postal Receipts Reported Down In '57

SIDNEY, Neb. (AP) — Postal receipts were down at Sidney in 1957 as compared with the year previous.

Postmaster Don Gillham reported 1956 figures as $95,743 and the 1957 total as $91,659. The total decline was set at four per cent.

Photographer Is Acquitted By Jury

NORTH PLATTE, Neb. (AP) — Louis Lovenburg, Ogallala photographer, was acquitted Thursday by a Federal District Court jury of mailing nude photographs.

Lovenburg had been charged on six counts of "mailing unmailable material." The jury took the case at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday and returned its verdict at 12:30 a.m. Thursday.

The government contended the pictures were obscene. Federal Judge Robert Van Pelt told the jury of six men and six women it would determine whether the pictures of unclothed men were obscene.

William Hickman, Mitchell insurance man, was jury foreman.

Limitations In Soil Bank Plan Seen

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department said it may have to limit participation in the acreage reserve part of the soil bank program this year.

The purpose would be to prevent obligation of funds in excess of the half-billion dollars authorized by Congress.

Under this program the department is authorized to make a payment to farmers who retire part or all of their 1958 planting allotment for cotton, corn, wheat, rice and tobacco.

Officials said that since local offices opened this week to accept land retirement agreements there have been so many applications in Texas and Oklahoma that limitation may have to be imposed.

Under such limitations, specific amounts would be allocated for affected crops in each state. Later, any unused funds in one state could be transferred to other states.

Officials said interest in the program is much greater than they expected. In his special farm message to Congress, President Eisenhower proposed to eliminate the acreage reserve part of the soil bank next year because, he said, "the number of farmers participating in 1953 is likely to be low." He proposed however, strengthening of the longer-term conservation reserve part of the program.

Youth Bound Over On Rape Charges

FAIRBURY, Neb. — Larry K. Abell, 20, Geneva, following a preliminary hearing on charges of raping a 15-year-old Diller girl, was bound over to the Jefferson County District Court. Bond was set at $2,000 and he was taken to the Jefferson County Jail on failure to post bond.

Jefferson County Attorney Melvin Moss said Abell would make no statement other than to state he wanted to see a lawyer.

Former Omahan Among Jaycees Top Young Men

OMAHA (AP) — A 1944 graduate of the University of Omaha, Alfred J. Eggers Jr., has been named one of the 10 outstanding young men of 1957 by the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Eggers is chief of the super sonic wind tunnel branch of Ames Aeronautical Laboratory, Moffet Field, Calif.

Dr. Eggers is a brother of Mrs. Karl M. Jones of Omaha. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Eggers, moved to Los Altos, Calif., from Omaha several years ago.

and blank proposals obtained in the office of the City Engineer.

The City Engineer estimates the cost of this site grading is $200,000.00.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $100.00 made payable to Frank J. Miller, City Treasurer, as a guarantee of good faith.
The City reserves the right to reject any or all proposals and to waive any defect in proposals.

THEO. H. BERG, City Clerk.

ORDINANCE NO. 6891

An Ordinance creating Paving District
No. 1336, defining the limits thereof, establishing the width of the roadway to be paved and the width of the grading to be done, providing for the grading, guttering and relaying of sidewalks, providing for the payment of the cost thereof, designating the property to be benefited, and repealing Ordinance No. 6501 and all other ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith.

BE IT ORDAINED by the City Council of the City of Lincoln, Nebraska: That Sec. 1. That Paving District No. 1336, of the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, be and the same is hereby created, that said Paving District shall include all that portion of Normal Blvd. lying between the east line of 32nd and 34th streets, and the west line of 34th Street, in said City, and the following described real estate benefited, to-wit: The south one-half of Block 12 and 14 and the north one-half of Block 12 and 14.

The roadway to be paved in said District shall be 26 feet in width; grading to be done to a depth of 12 inches; guttering to be done to a depth of 12 inches; and the grading, guttering, and paving of the sidewalks and all expenses incident thereto of all said improvement shall be assessed against the property benefited in said District in proportion to the benefit thereof.

Sec. 2. That Ordinance No. 6501 and all other ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith be and the same hereby are repealed.

Sec. 3. This Ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication according to the provisions hereof.

Witness my hand and the seal of the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, this 12th day of January, 1959.

Physician Shatters Belief That Fingerprints Are Unalterable

CHICAGO (AP) — A New Orleans physician shattered Thursday a belief long held by law enforcement agencies and identification experts — that fingerprints are permanent and unalterable.

Dr. James W. Burks of the Tulane University School of Medicine, division of dermatology, described two medical cases in which fingerprints were obliterated with a revolving wire brush of the type used to remove acne or small pox scars.

The technique is called skin planing.

The skin that grew back over the denuded area was generally smooth, except for minute, thin, criss-crossed and parallel lines.

Unsuccessful

John Dillinger, the terror of the 30s, and other criminals attempted unsuccessfully to obliterate their fingerprints to escape identification.

Dillinger used acid in an attempt to burn them off, but they still were recognizable.

Writing in the current Archives of Dermatology, an American Medical Assn. publication, Dr. Burks said identification experts considered the post-planing fingerprints of his two patients "worthless in establishing the identity of the subject or even in their general classifications."

He added:

"The results herein reported will be somewhat disconcerting to workers in the field of identification who rely heavily on the ever-increasing bulk of recorded prints and who advocate making universal fingerprinting mandatory.

Implications

"The potential inconsistency of fingerprints renders positive identification by this means uncertain and thus has legal implications which will undoubtedly affect certain judicial decisions."

Dr. Burks' patients were treated with the high-speed electric brush to remove horny growths, caused by exposure to arsenic in industry. Each had a growth on a finger tip. The brush abraded the skin through the top layer or epidermis and part of the underlying dermal layer. The dermal layer can be used for fingerprints.

The skin doctor warned dermatologists against "the hazards of abetting criminals who seek their services for removal of their fingerprints."

On the other hand, he said, dermatologists can aid law enforcement officials by determining what medical reasons, if any, a suspect may have for removing his prints.

Rogers Considers Suspension Of Arnold Doctor's License

... Attorney General Studies Case

Dr. E. A. Rogers, state health director, has asked the attorney general's office "to see if there are grounds" for revoking the medical license of Dr. E. Harold Reeves, central figure in a prolonged doctor-hospital controversy at Arnold, Dr. Rogers said late Thursday.

Dr. Rogers also disclosed that Dr. Reeves telephoned him Thursday and "swore he would leave the Arnold community if I would withdraw my request from the attorney general's office."

Asst. Atty. Gen. Homer Kyle said he was studying "mountains of pro and con evidence in the case" and would be unable to render a decision until "sometime next week."

Charles Moon, State Health Department official, said he would leave Friday for Arnold, "at the request of the pro and anti-Reeves factions" in an attempt to "bring about a peace treaty in the community."

'Wonder Nobody Shot'

Moon had previously remarked "It's a wonder nobody has been shot over this affair."

The State Medical Association's hospital-professional relations committee, headed by Dr. J. R. Schenken of Omaha, requested Dr. Reeves last November to leave the Sand Hills community "in order to stop the controversy," Dr. Rogers said.

The action was taken following two months of committee investigation into the three-year controversy which had "even split families into opposing factions."

The dispute was touched off when the board of the Arnold Community Hospital extended only limited medical privileges to Dr. Reeves, who formerly had been a full member of the hospital staff.

Not True Feeling

Dr. Reeves' supporters claimed the board did not represent the community's true feeling. The anti-Reeves faction contended the physician's "actions during the controversy were not those which uphold the dignity of a doctor of medicine."

At one time, Dr. Reeves lost his federal permission to dispense narcotics. The privilege later was restored.

Dr. R. Russell Best of Omaha, State Medical Assn. president, reported last November Dr. Reeves had told the Association he was closing his office and leaving the Arnold community.

Last week, a 15 to 20 man Arnold delegation held a closed meeting here with Dr. Rogers in what the health director said was an attempt to get action to induce Dr. Reeves to leave the community.

Joint Project

LONDON (INS) — The London Daily Mail quoted a Soviet scientist as suggesting to Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev that the U.S. and Britain be asked to join in a project to reach the moon.

The scientist was identified as Prof. N. Varvarov, president of the aeronautical section of the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

No Nagging Backache Means a Good Night's Sleep

Nagging backache, headache, or muscular aches and pains may come on with over-exertion, emotional upsets or day to day stress and strain. And folks who eat and drink unwisely sometimes suffer mild bladder irritation... with that restless, uncomfortable feeling.

If you are miserable and worn out because of these discomforts, Doan's Pills often help by their main relieving action, by their soothing effect to ease bladder irritation, and by their mild diuretic action through the kidneys—tending to increase the output of the 15 miles of kidney tubes.

So if nagging backache makes you feel dragged-out, miserable, with restless, sleepless nights, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, get the same happy relief millions have enjoyed for over 60 years. Ask for new, large, economy size and save money. Get Doan's Pills today!

Paroles From Reformatory Granted To 8

All eight State Men's Reformatory inmates granted hearings before the Nebraska Board of Pardons and Paroles Thursday were paroled.

They are:

Charles B. Cadwallader, 24, of West Virginia, no account check, 1 1/2 years, Scotts Bluff County, 1957.

Don McElroy, 19, of Texas, auto theft, 1 1/2 years, York County, 1956.

Fred A. Edmunds, 23, Omaha, manslaughter, 6 years, Douglas, 1957.

CONVICT IN FOR MANSLAUGHTER ASKS CLEMENCY

An Ogallala man serving a five-year Nebraska Penitentiary sentence for manslaughter will ask clemency before the State Board of Pardons and Paroles at the next board session Feb. 12.

Irvin Sanders, 62, is one of eight Penitentiary inmates to be given hearings. Eight men's Reformatory inmates will be heard the following day.

Sanders, a farm laborer, was sentenced from Garden County June 27, 1956. At the time of his prosecution he claimed he shot his best friend, Bill Frank, 48, of Lisco, in "self defense" during an argument.

Another prison inmate, Merle W. Burnside, 41, - a Grand Island carpenter's helper, will ask release from his eight year sentence for robbery.

Burnside was sentenced from Hall County in 1954. He was charged with robbing the H & H Liquor Store in Grand Island.

Other Penitentiary inmates to be heard, with addresses, nature of conviction, county where convicted and year sentenced, include:

Jerry Deak, 24, Arkansas, robbery, Buffalo County, 1954, five years.

George Yurcovan, 37, Omaha, no fund checks, Douglas County, 1957, three years.

Homer Sexton, 52, Omaha, no fund checks, Douglas County, 1957, three years.

Virgil Broyles, 40, Omaha, embezzlement, Douglas County, 1957, five years.

Benny Frenquez, 19, Sacramento, Calif., aiding and abetting forger, Kimball County, 1957, two and a half years.

Stanley Putnam, 22, Goshen, cattle theft, Lincoln County, 1955, 36 to 40 months.

Reformatory cases to be heard Feb. 13 include:

Donald Calaway, 22, Toledo, O., no fund check and violation of bench parole, Box Butte County, 1957, three years.

Charles F. Taylor, 22, Crawford, forgery and violation of bench parole, Box Butte, 1957, two years.

Michael J. Meehan, 23, New York City, breaking and entering, Cheyenne County, 1957, three years.

John F. Gibbons, 23, Grand Island, grand larceny, Clay County, 1957, two years.

Charles Lee Bell, 32, Omaha, assault to rob and shooting to kill, wound or maim, Douglas County, 1956, 8 to 12 years.

Gerald Carter, 22, Omaha, manslaughter, Douglas County, 1956, four to six years.

Robert Enslar, 19, Beatrice, stealing auto, Lancaster County, 1956, one to three years.

Meredith L. Clark, 32, Rubell, no fund checks and violation bench parole, Thayer County, 1956, one to three years.
